After L. I. Custody Ruling

Fitzsimmons Sees Some Vindication

BY TOBIE GEERTSEMA

Freeman Staff Writer

Pursuing much the same wary and seemingly well-thought-out in advance course he followed during the controversial Liumi adoption case in this area recently, Ulster County Commissioner of Welfare Joseph Fitzsimmons released only a brief, cautiously worded statement to The Freeman today on the results of a similar custody case on Long Island.

Asked if he felt a sense of vindication in the rejection of the plea of the Nuzio J. Marchese of West Hempstead, L. I., for custody of the four-year-old girl they have reared from infancy, Fitzsimmons said only that the Supreme Court, in rejecting the Marchese's entreaties, had proved to some extent that he and his department were "not entirely wrong" in their stand during the Liumi affair.

In doing so, he left the impression that Ulster County officials

"must be doing something right" to see many of their highly criticized decisions and contested legal arguments upheld in the Marchese case which has been compared by some to the Liumi controversy.

The Long Island court battle did not have the happy ending that was reserved for the Michael Liumis, of Tilton. They took their Beth home for good, but little Anne Nancy Pazani will not be returned to the Marcheses. Justice Thomas A. Aurelio ruled Monday that the New York Foundling Hospital was acting within its rights and in the best interest of the child in its insistence on reclaiming her. The pretty tyke, almost the same age as Beth Liumi and who had been with the Marcheses for about the same length of time as Beth had lived with her foster parents, is now in another private home as a prelude to adoption.

The Liumis had never relinquished Beth physically during their fight to keep her, but Anne Nancy had already been placed in what the judge called "a more contemporary environment" before the decision that she will stay with her new foster parents was rendered.

Cases Differ

While there were similarities in the two cases, there were also differences. Marchese, 60-years-old and a hotel cook, and his wife, Josephine, 55, were older than the 48-year-old Liumis. Both couples, however, had three children of their own

Bayou DA Moves to Force Return Of Two Witnesses in Plot Probe

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison moved on two fronts today to get witnesses he wants in his John F. Kennedy assassination conspiracy probe.

The district attorney's office issued a warrant Monday for the arrest of Lillie Mae McMaines, 22, Omaha, Neb., as a material witness.

The U.S. attorney's office was asked by Garrison to issue an unlawful flight order against Gordon Novel 29, former owner of a French Quarter bar who disappeared last week before he was to have appeared before the Orleans Parish grand jury.

Bring in FBI

If U.S. Atty. Louis LaCour honors Garrison's request, it would bring the FBI into the search for Novel.

"I think it is very odd that Novel can be found by newspaper and television media and not by the people who are trying to arrest him," said Asst. Dist. Atty. James Alcock.

There was no immediate word from LaCour's office about the request and an FBI spokesman declined to comment about Novel.

Some federal authorities are known to look upon Garrison's investigation with a cold eye. The Warren Commission named by President Johnson to investigate the assassination of President Kennedy in Dallas, Tex., Nov. 22, 1963, concluded that New Orleans-born Lee Harvey Oswald was the assassin and acted alone.

Commission's office issued a warrant last week for Novel's arrest and asked that he be placed under $50,000 bond.

Attended Party

Perry R. Russo, 25, a Baton Rouge insurance salesman, said Mrs. McMaines, then known as Sandra Moffett, was one of several persons attending a party in the New Orleans apartment of the late David W. Ferrie in mid-September 1963.

After this party Russo testified two weeks ago he heard Ferrie, Oswald and Clay L. Shaw conspire to kill President Kennedy.

Shaw, 54, a retired New Orleans business executive, has been indicted by the grand jury on a charge of conspiring to murder Kennedy.

Mrs. McMaines, married to part-time Omaha minister Harold McMaines 48, told newsmen last week she did not attend the party but said she had known Russo.

Criminal Dist. Judge Edward A. Hagerty Jr. who will conduct Shaw's trial, signed the warrant for Mrs. McMaines as a material witness and set bond at $5,000.

Termed Important

"We feel sure she is a very important witness," said Asst. Dist. Atty. Andrew Sciambra. F. Irving Dymond, one of Shaw's defense attorneys, also

Hit Haiphong Outskirts; Depot, SAM Site Targets

Penetrate Five Miles of Port

SAIGON, (AP) — American pilots bombed the outskirts of Haiphong Monday and pounded other targets in North Vietnam with the heaviest raids in two weeks.

Fly 107 Missions

A slight break in the weather over North Vietnam enabled U.S. planes to fly 107 missions, a spokesman said. This was the largest number since March 14 when American pilots flew 116.

The targets included an oil storage depot six miles northwest of Haiphong and a surface-to-air missile site only five miles from the Red port. It was the closest penetration to North Vietnam's major port since the same fuel depot was attacked March 6.

The stepped-up strikes indicated U.S. airmen were opening to seize any break in the weather to increase pressure on North Vietnam. The seasonal monsoon winds are due to change any day now, providing good bombing weather for the next few months.

The spokesman also announced the loss of an Air Force F4C Phantom jet over the north Sunday. The two crewmen are listed as missing in action. The plane was the second downed by enemy ground fire Sunday but the announcement of the second loss was delayed while search planes looked for the crews.

The United States has now announced 498 planes lost over the north.

Ground Action Light

Though the tempo of the air war increased ground action was generally light with only scattered action reported. Enemy activity included terrorist bombing of three civilian buses north of Da Nang in which five civilians were killed and eight injured.

The U.S. Navy announced that the destroyers Stoddard and Turner Joy were fired on by coastal guns Easter Sunday while shelling the North Vietnamese radar and defense complex on Hon Me island. Neither ship was hit.

Although the weather was clearing over the north, many of the planes went in using radar and all-weather bombing techniques. The carrier Enterprise sent her all-weather intruder jets against the targets around missiles and heavy bombs.

Blistering Fireball

Air Force planes flying from Thailand bombed sunovino points along the western edge of North Vietnam and down the southern panhandle. One heavy raid went against a supply complex which the North Vietnamese have laid out near the old battlefield of Dien Bien Phu. The bombs set off a blistering fireball and sent black smoke rising 5,000 feet above the jungle area.

Adding to the aerial pounding three raids by Guam-based B52s hit suspected Communist troop complexes in the south.

Ground action was largely confined to the sensitive northern provinces bordering the 17th Parallel which divides Vietnam and where the North Vietnamese have a possible invasion force of about 35,000 men.

NEIL N. WHITEHURST

Named Director Of UCCC Summer School Session

Ulster County Community College's chairman of the division of business, Prof. Neil N. Whitehurst, has been named director of the college's 1967 Summer School sessions.

Two Sessions

There will be two Summer Day Sessions beginning June 13 and July 24, and a Summer Evening Session starting June 13.

He received an Associate in Applied Science Degree from Mohawk Valley Technical Institute and his B.S. and M.S. degrees from the State University of New York at Albany. Before coming to UCCC, Professor Whitehurst was chairman of the Retailing Department at Green Mountain College in Vermont for six years.

As chairman of the Division of Business at UCCC, Whitehurst has been responsible for developing four degree programs—Business Administration, Accounting, Secretarial Science and Retail Business Management. He also pioneered extension work at the college including the Administrative Management Institute, Tax Seminar and Family Finance; an Estate Planning Seminar. These programs were unique because they were non-credit and allowed the Division of Business to meet both the academic and practical needs of the business community by providing new opportunities for dissemination of information on current business practices.

Prof. Whitehurst's Division also pioneered the concept of the one-year diploma program at UCCC—including Business Office Skills Technology and Professional Typist. They began last September and these diploma programs will have their first graduates this June.

He was one of the initial founders of the New York State Retailing and Marketing Education Council.

Two Infants Die In Hudson Area Basement Blaze

STUYVESANT FALLS, N. Y. (AP)—Two young sisters perished Monday night when fire swept their partially completed home in this hamlet north of Hudson.

Sheriff's deputies identified the dead as Kathleen Webster, 7, and Karen, 5.

Daughter Escapes

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Webster, and another daughter escaped.

The family had been living in the basement, pending completion of the rest of the house.

The basement was heated by two pot-bellied wood-burning stoves.

The cause of the fire was not determined.

Heard Crying

Webster told firemen he was awakened shortly before midnight by the crying of their youngest child, Sharon, 3, who shared a room with her parents. Webster aroused his wife and carried Sharon out. Flames drove him back when he tried to reach the other children, he said.

Linked to Spy Ring

Greece Puts Skids on Reds

ATHENS (AP) — Two Soviet

diplomats have been ordered to leave Greece by Wednesday night, apparently because they were involved with the big Soviet ring spying on North Atlantic Treaty Organization bases in the Mediterranean area.

Incriminating Evidence

The Foreign Ministry issued expulsion orders for Albert Zharov, second secretary in the Soviet Embassy, and Igor Ochurkov, a member of the Soviet commercial delegation. The Foreign Ministry said incriminating evidence had been compiled against them concerning activities incompatible with their status.

Unofficial sources believe the pair was part of the spy ring disclosed last week with the arrest of three Italians. Since then, one Soviet diplomat has hurriedly left Italy two Russians have been expelled from Cyprus, several civilians have been arrested in Cyprus, and Swiss police said arrests may be made there.

The three Italians, who were charged last Wednesday in Turin with espionage for the Soviet Union, were Giorgio Rinaldi, 39, an exhibition parachutist; his wife, Angela Maria, 52, and their chauffeur, Armando Girard, 40.

Reports circulated in Turin Monday that the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency wanted to talk to six American parachutists who knew Rinaldi and participated with him and an Italian group of chutists in a mass jump at Stuttgart, Germany, in September 1962.

Interested in Contacts

The Americans were not identified, but the CIA was said to be interested in the contacts they had with Rinaldi.

Informants in Turin told newsmen last week that Rinaldi had implicated 300 NATO employees in the espionage operation, but the Italian government denied this.

Authorities in Turin said microfilms of secret documents and military sites were found in the Rinaldi's home, including pictures of an air base at Aviano, in northern Italy, and of a U.S. base in Spain.

Rinaldi's reputation as a parachutist, they said, allowed him easy access to military bases. He allegedly was trained to take still pictures and movies.

Sources in Nicosia, Cyprus, said the main job of the spy ring on that island was to watch the British Royal Air Force atomic bomber base on the south of the island.

Denies Organized Move Here on Milk-Dumping

While there is no widespread dumping of milk in the Ulster County area, milk is being spilled on southern Ulster farms in "sympathetic" support of the National Farmers Organization protest for higher prices.

The two-week old milk-price protest which appears to be sweeping into some 30 states across the nation reached Ulster County a few days ago after meetings were held in the Wallkill area.

Joins Protest

Hide Ozinga, a New Paltz dairyman whose farm is located on Guilford School House Road, reported Monday that he and three of his neighboring dairymen had joined the protest and were dumping milk.

Ozinga reported he was dumping approximately 3,400 pounds of milk, his neighbor 4,000, 5, 100 and 2,000 pounds respectively. Ozinga said he intended to continue to dump his milk "until this thing is over" and higher prices are paid for milk.

The withholding of fluid milk from the processor followed a meeting on Friday at Wallkill, Ozinga said. Since the meeting, the move to withhold milk had grown, Ozinga said. He started to withhold milk on Sunday when he declined to ship his milk to a processor in Poughkeepsie.

"I intend to withhold my milk from the market until this strike is over," he stated in reply to a question whether he intended to continue to dump his milk.

Not Widespread

However there appears at the present time no widespread movement on the part of dairy farmers to dump their milk. It was stated from reliable sources that there is no formal organization in Ulster County and no known members of the National Farmers Organization, whose headquarters are at Corning, Iowa.

The movement in Ulster County to support the milk strike sponsored by the NFO, and now in its second week, was described as a "sympathetic move" in support of higher prices for milk and there appears to be no regularly organized group in the county.

Ulster County has no processing plants left, with the exception of Pratt Boice who processes milk for a couple of local dairy farms. Most of the local milk is processed in Poughkeepsie by Fitchett Brothers, with some being processed by Crowleys and Sealtest, Ozinga said.

Dairyman today receive about $4.65 a hundredweight for milk. The objective of the strike is to bring an additional $1 per 100 weight to the dairymen. NFO President Oren Lee Staley recently said an unspecified number of contracts calling for a 2-cent-a-quart increase have been signed with dairies and similar pacts are being urged on other distributors.

Agent Comment

Robert D. Guzewich, associate county agricultural agent, commenting on the situation in Ulster County said there appeared to be no widespread withholding of milk locally although dairymen were being "very poorly paid" for their product. Asked if there was a formal organization in Ulster County backing the milk strike, he said he knew of none at this time.

Back in 1933 dairymen revolted against low milk prices and state police and deputy sheriffs battled irate farmers. Roads were strewn with spikes to prevent milk trucks from carrying milk to market. Again in 1939 there was a nine-day milk boycott which ended after widespread violence. At that time the dairymen were battling for a $2.35 hundredweight scale. A hundredweight of milk is equal to 46½ quarts. The boycott was settled when the farmers settled for $2.15. Again in 1959 there was a boycott of milk plants for several days.

During the present boycott by NFO millions of quarts of milk have been dumped but to date there has been no noticeable effect on the local milk market because the amount of milk dumped is only a small percentage of the local production.

In New York State where the output is some 500 million quarts a month, the effect on the fluid milk market has not been noticeable up to the present time. The state's larger dairy organizations

Could Hike Liquor Tax

Leaders Wax Cool To Lindsay Pitch

An AP News Analysis
By WILLIAM S. STEVENS

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The state's high command appears to be drawing up short in considering New York Mayor John V. Lindsay's request for more money that might require a statewide increase in liquor taxes.

Both Republican Gov. Rockefeller and Democratic Assembly Speaker Anthony J. Travia left that impression with newsmen Monday after they met with Republican Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges to discuss Lindsay's plight.

Ask $180 Million More
Lindsay, a coalition Republican, has asked the state for about $180 million in additional aid to help him balance the city's budget.

To obtain this, Lindsay has suggested, among other things, four additional drawings of the lottery and a 90-cents-a-fifth increase in the state tax on a fifth of liquor.

Neither the governor nor the legislative leaders display much antagonism to Lindsay's suggestion for additional lottery drawings.

But Travia has been adamant about the proposed increase in liquor taxes.

"I'm not for it, in any amount," the Legislature's most powerful Democrat has said.

And Monday, both Travia and the governor cast doubt on the mental amount of aid Lindsay needed to balance income with outgo.

Not Agreed on Needs
"We are not agreed on what money the city needs," said Rockefeller.

"There's a question," replied Travia when asked if his fiscal experts agreed with Lindsay's view of the city's financial woes.

The clear indication was that both men would be more than happy to discover Lindsay's deficit estimate was enough in error to allow them to satisfy the city's demands without increasing any statewide taxes.

Travia and Brydges will be leaders at the forthcoming State Constitutional Convention and the added duty of trying to force through a tax increase during the closing days of the 1967 legislative session is one that neither appears to relish.

For Rockefeller, an additional statewide tax would bring back memories of the 1962 campaign when he pledged no tax increase and a statement in this year's budget message to the Legislature that read:

"No new or increased taxes are being recommended for the fiscal year 1967-68."

Already there appears to be some attempt at justification for not giving Lindsay all the money he wants.

Said a high-ranking source: "A good budget director could work that money around just about the way that John wants it."

This would indicate that the city's budget director may have to "work that money around" without depending on all the added funds Lindsay wants.

Governor Favors Restoring Funds For River Group
The scenic and historic corridor of the Hudson River Valley must have long ago impressed Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. It has played a prominent part in many plans undertaken during his two terms in office and now, in his third term, he is disagreeing with the Legislature on budget slashes made in Hudson River Valley Commission projections for 1967-68.

Rockefeller favors restoring the $282,000 cut in the commission's budget, according to a statement made by his assistant press secretary Monday, because "We think the commission needs the money."

Both Alexander Aldrich, commission executive director, and Senator Jay P. Rolison (R-Dutchess and Ulster Counties), on learning of the budget cut earlier this month, had said they would investigate the possibility of having the monies restored in the supplemental budget.

They have evidently met with some success since the press secretary also noted that "We prefer the money is contained in the governor's supplemental budget."

The hefty chunk chopped from the River Commission budget was among the $30 million knifed by the Legislature from the $4.6 billion state budget two weeks ago. Some $846,000 had been earmarked for the commission, but the Legislature cut that by $282,000 to $564,000.

Aldrich is fighting for the return of the funds to avoid having to eliminate a possible 28 authorized positions if the money is not restored.

The supplemental budget is being prepared at this time and will be submitted at the end of the legislative session.

'Checkless Society' Looms

Forsees 'Cash Card' Replacing Checks, Could Start in 70s

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the not too distant future, you'll walk into a supermarket, buy the week's groceries and order a computer to pay the bill without one penny or even a check changing hands.

Coming Very Fast
That's the forecast of George W. Mitchell, a member of the Federal Reserve Board, in what he and the banking community term a "checkless society."

"It's coming very, very fast," Mitchell said today in an interview. "By the early 1970s, the system might be set up. When people find out it's easier and more convenient to do business this way they'll take to the change."

Mitchell said computers will make the new system possible but won't eliminate coins, dollar bills or some checks. But he and others foresee the "cash card" as the main money instrument of the future.

Mitchell said it will have one excellent side effect — eliminating checks which might bounce. Coins and currency make up slightly more than $39 billion of a total supply of money exceeding $173 billion. The remaining $134 billion is in 70 million checking accounts.

Mitchell, who is working on the checkless society idea for the board, estimated that Americans write at least 60 million checks each day, inundating bankers and the Federal Reserve Board with paper.

Processing these checks, he said, is expensive, time-consuming and geared to a completely obsolete technology.

How System Works
Basically the checkless society would work in this way: Employers, instead of sending checks to a worker, would merely contact his bank and credit his accounts with weekly or monthly salaries.

The employee making a purchase would present his cash card which would be inserted

Cong Waging Vote Terror

SAIGON (AP)—The Viet Cong are waging a terrorist campaign against village and hamlet elections scheduled to start in South Vietnam next week, intelligence sources said today.

Communist guerrillas have been threatening capable candidates with abduction and murder, encouraging incompetents to become candidates, warning voters against voting, tearing up registration cards, and ordering voters to leave home during the election so they cannot participate.

Viet Cong propaganda teams have visited scores of villages and hamlets.

Intelligence experts say the guerrillas rounded up peasants in one hamlet in Gia Dinh Province just outside Saigon March 3 for an anti-election rally.

Viet Cong speakers told their captive audience that the elections were a "treacherous ruse" by the Saigon government to implement a "false democratic regime." Candidates for office were warned to withdraw or their safety "would not be guaranteed."

Voting cards and census records were seized by guerrilla raiders in Vinh Binh hamlet March 16.

VFW Speaks Out On Communism, Increased Crime

Commander Winter of Joyce-Schirick Post 1386 VFW in Kingston, wishes to make it known to everyone his organization's policy and action concerning Communism and the rising rate of crime.

The local VFW Post as well as its state and national organization have been active in the fight against Communism since the closing days of World War II. Many of the 200 resolutions accepted and adopted at the VFW National Convention in New York City last August pertain to stopping the spread of Communism in the United States as well as the rest of the world.

When Commander-in-Chief, Leslie M. Fry, of the National VFW speaks to legislators in Washington, D. C., he represents one million, five hundred thousand members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The recent decision of the Supreme Court disallowing states the right of including a Loyalty Oath in the hiring of school teachers caused much concern to VFW Posts all over the country.

At a regular meeting of Post 1386 on February 28 the membership instructed the commandery to contact national and Department VFW to be informed of what has been done on those levels concerning the Supreme Court's ruling, and take whatever action deemed necessary by the local post.

He contacted Edward Papanicolaou, National Americanism chairman and Joseph Gumo, Department of New York adjutant, by phone on March 2 and was assured that both levels of the Veterans of Foreign Wars had already taken action to have legislation acted upon to counteract the ruling.

At the post level letters have been drawn up and sent to legislators requesting that they take positive action to have Loyalty Americans teaching in the schools. In Post 1386's March edition of their newsletter Winter asked its 592 Post and 128 Auxiliary members to write a letter and send it to their Senators and Representatives demanding action on this matter. It has been proven in the past that more attention is given, by a legislator to a short handwritten letter from an individual than to a prepared letter, petition with signatures and other actions of that type. We will in our Post keep actively moving until we win this battle through legislation.

At this time Post 1386 asks all true loyal citizens of our community to take a few minutes to write a note to Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick, Senator Jacob K. Javits and Senator Robert F. Kennedy and express their views on this serious matter.

Post 1386 Veterans of Foreign Wars does not point an accusing finger at any one person or group for the rising crime rate in this area. In many cases men find themselves in trouble and look back to their days of youth and find the cause. This is why the local post stresses youth activity. At the present time the organization sponsors Troop 19 BSA, Pack 19, the Pirates National Little League team, Babe Ruth team and co-sponsors the Indians Drum Corps.

The Ladies Auxiliary now have a Junior Girls Unit that is making great strides. When post funds are available outings for Children's Homes in the area, space in the post home is given youth organization projects such as the Civil Air Patrol and donations are presented to other youth projects and clubs.

It has been proven through the years that very few of the young men who were active in youth programs were involved in any sort of trouble.

You may ask, "what thanks does an organization receive for the money spent and the man hours put in?" Our reward is seeing young men becoming good lawabiding citizens of the United States of America. We thank God that we of Joyce-Schirick Post 1386 V.F.W. are able to help our community in this respect.

See Major Test Of RFK Skill On 1968 Stand

By JACK BELL

AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's announced intention to campaign for President Johnson in 1968 is beginning to shape up as a major test of political skill for the New Yorker.

Kennedy confirmed Monday what he has been saving for a long time — he will not challenge Johnson for the Democratic presidential nomination next year.

Position Could Change
The senator made it known through an aide that he would file the necessary sworn disclaimer of presidential intentions in Oregon, Nebraska or any other state where his name might be entered in a presidential primary.

This could change, of course, if something took Johnson out as a candidate for re-election.

But the action points Kennedy toward the necessity of campaigning vigorously to elect an individual with whom he has personal and political differences not likely to be reconciled in the months that lie ahead.

Kennedy obviously wants to carve out a position within the party that will set him apart from the Johnson administration — but not too far apart.

Some of his friends think Kennedy may have gone a little too far in this direction with his February White House spat with the President and his subsequent reiterated criticism of Johnson for not stopping the bombing of North Vietnam in the absence of any sign this would bring peace talks.

An embarrassment of publicity riches has put the senator in a position where anti-Johnson

Democrats, primarily the party's liberal and youthful Vietnam protesters, have embraced him as their leader.

To hold this following intact as a nucleus for a probable bid for the 1972 presidential nomination, Kennedy cannot afford to compromise with Johnson or even soften his war position materially.

King-Size Dilemma

He must be for Johnson as "an outstanding president," as Kennedy himself has classified the chief executive, but against some of his most important policies.

This will present a king-size dilemma for the senator if he campaigns side by side with Johnson through New York or for the 1968 ticket in other states.

Politicians agree, however, that Kennedy will have to dig in vigorously for Johnson. Otherwise, if the President were defeated the senator would be blamed for the loss and if Johnson won without his help Kennedy's political standing would slump.

Crime Under Microscope of 500 Lawmen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Crime goes under the microscope today of 500 law enforcement, court and other officials seeking to trace the anatomy of lawlessness that frightens some Americans off the street with violence and preys on others through organized syndicates.

The 500 were called here by President Johnson to help plan tactics for putting into operation what could be the greatest anti-crime drive the United States has mounted.

The broad outline of the problem and about 200 recommendations for coping with it are contained in a 352-page, $2-million report by the President's Crime Commission. The report took 18 months to produce.

The report says it would cost "several hundred million dollars" each of the next 10 years to wage a successful drive.

Ramsey Clark, whom President Johnson saw sworn in as attorney general March 10 to "be our commander in this war on two fronts against crime" is the two-day conference's keynote speaker.

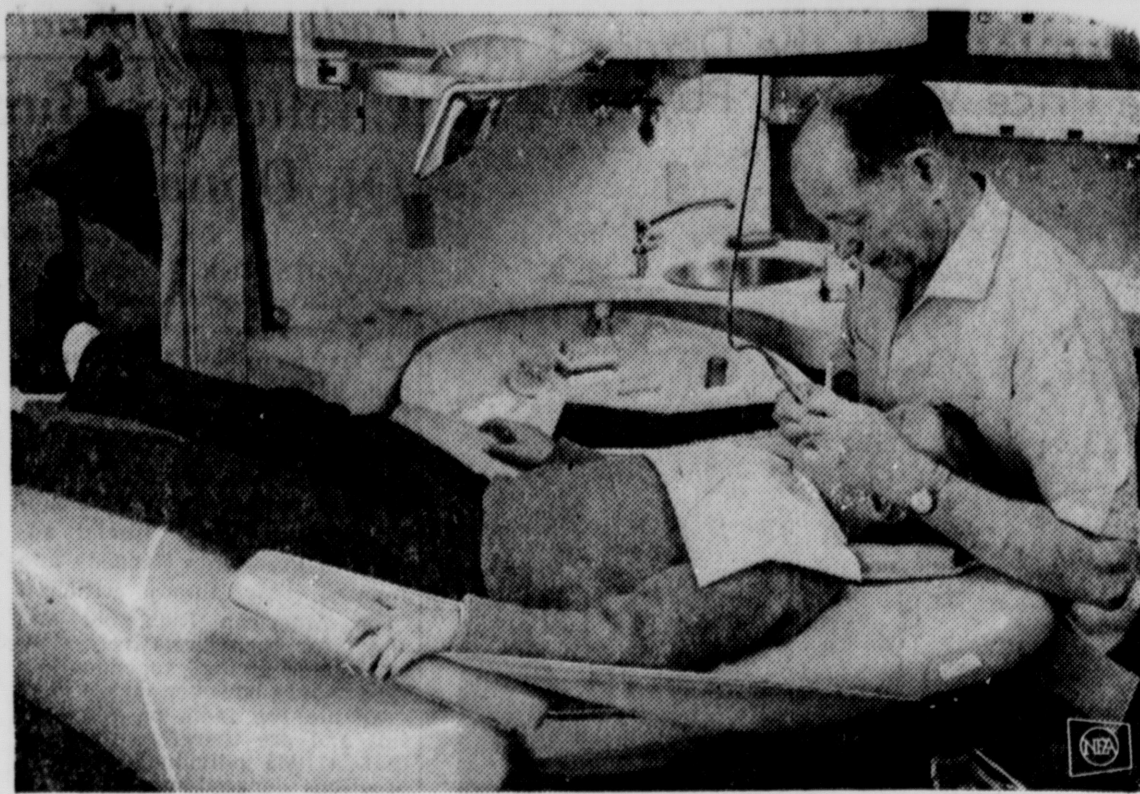

Today's theme is "Planning for Change" the report says must come if today's police forces, courts and detention centers are to be modernized to meet new crime situations.

4th Quint Dies, Girl Survives; Chances Good

VASTERAS, Sweden (AP) — Another of the quintuplets born to a Swedish woman March 21 died Monday night, leaving only a girl alive.

Doctors said the girl's chances of survival were somewhat better than the other babies' because her weight at birth, 28 ounces, was the heaviest of the five.

Mrs. Frederik Lars Jansson, 28, gave birth to four girls and a boy after being treated with a hormone fertility drug. The babies were three months premature. Three of the girls died on the first day after birth. The boy died Monday night.

OFFICE MERRY-GO-ROUND keeps patients flowing to Los Angeles, Calif., dentist C. Perry Smith. Dr. Smith has invented a rotating operating room that carries patients to him on a platform that rides an air cushion. Here he is working on one patient, while the head of another is barely visible at far right, ready to be whisked to the dentist with a push of a button. The system avoids the congestion and collisions that occur when the dentist must have various patients scattered in different rooms in his office.

Continue Search For Americans in Malaysia Jungle

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Friends of American "silk king" James Thompson, missing in the Malaysian jungle for two days, expressed hope today that kidnappers are holding him for ransom.

Fears for the safety of the 61-year-old Bangkok businessman mounted as more than 250 police, soldiers and civilian volunteers searched with dogs and native trackers around the Cameron Highlands hill resort where Thompson disappeared Sunday.

"We're really hoping now he has been kidnaped and that we'll soon get word someone wants a ransom of 50,000 Malaysian dollars (about $5,000) or so for his safety," said a Dr. Amundsen of Bangkok, a member of Thompson's party.

Kidnap gangs operating in the Cameron Highlands 90 miles north of Kuala Lumpur normally prey on wealthy businessmen, usually Chinese.

Other sources expressed belief that Thompson may have become lost along the maze of jungle trails.

Pope's Edict Notes Population Control

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI gave a carefully qualified endorsement today to government measures of population control without indicating any relaxation in the Roman Catholic Church's opposition to mechanical means of birth control.

Writing in the fifth encyclical of his reign, the pontiff in a section on population growth said "the temptation is great to check the demographic increase by radical measures."

He added: "Public authorities can intervene within the limit of their competence, by favoring the availability of appropriate information and by adopting suitable measures, provided that these be in conformity with the moral law and that they respect the rightful freedom of married couples."

The encyclical, which appealed for social and economic justice, said that unlimited capitalism is a "woeful system." It endorsed the redistribution among the poor of large estates which are "unused or poorly used" and criticized wealthy tax dodgers who transfer income abroad to escape obligations to aid the welfare of their countries.

The encyclical was titled "Populorum Progresio — On the Development of Peoples." From its first words, it dealt with material things of the world rather than with religious or spiritual themes. The document bore the date of last Sunday, Easter, March 25.

The section on demography conceded that "too frequently an accelerated demographic increase adds its own difficulties to the problems of development: the size of the population increases more rapidly than available resources, and as a result are found to have apparently reached an impasse."

"From that moment" the Pope continued, "the temptation is great to check the demographic increase by means of radical measures."

"It is certain that public authorities can intervene, within the limit of their competence, by favoring the availability of appropriate information and by adopting suitable measures, provided that these be in conformity with the moral law and that they respect the rightful freedom of married couples."

But the Pope then returned to the Church's traditional stand on birth control, stating:

"Where the inalienable right to marriage and procreation is lacking, human dignity has ceased to exist."

Parents' Decision
"Finally, it is for the parents to decide, with full knowledge of the matter, on the number of their children, taking into account their responsibilities toward God, themselves, the children they have already brought into the world, and the community to which they belong."

"In all this they must follow the demands of their own conscience enlightened by God law sustained by confidence in Him."

This gave no indication of any change in the Church's position that the rhythm method is the only permissible form of birth control.

The bulk of the 8,000-word letter to his bishops was concerned with the broad field of economic and social justice and the ills of capitalism.

The Pope said speed is necessary to bring balance between the world's rich and poor, although he warned against revolution.

List Proposals
Instead he proposed:
1. "A great world fund, to be made up of part of the money spent on arms, to relieve the most destitute of this world."
2. A careful study of reorganization of various aid programs to keep them from being "scattered or isolated."
3. Higher taxes on the rich to meet the cost of aid, and higher prices on imported goods.
4. A revision of interest rates and systems of loan repayment "so as not to be too great a burden on either party."
5. Establishment of price regulations, production guarantees support for new industries and controls upon world trade "without abolishing the competitive market."

Industry Necessary
The Pope said "the introduction of industry is a necessity for economic growth and human progress."

But on the subject of "liberal capitalism," he added, "It is unfortunate that in these new conditions of society a system has been constructed which considers profit as the key motive for economic progress, competition as the supreme law of economics, and private ownership of the means of production as an absolute right that has no limits and carries no corresponding social obligation. This unchecked liberalism leads to dictatorship."

"One cannot condemn such abuses too strongly by solemnly recalling once again that the economy is at the service of man."
"But if it is true that a type of capitalism has been the source of excessive suffering, injustices and fratricidal conflicts whose effects still persist, it would also be wrong to attribute to industrialization itself evils that belong to the woeful system which accompanied it."
"On the contrary one must recognize in all justice the irreplaceable contribution made by the organization of labor and of industry to what development has accomplished."

"Private property does not constitute for anyone an absolute and unconditional right," the Pope said. "No one is justified in keeping for his exclusive use what he does not need, when others lack necessities."

Returns to Trawler

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — A tall, bushy-haired commercial fisherman from Vladivostok was back at sea aboard his Soviet shrimp trawler today after spending 43 hours in jail for violating U.S. coastal waters.

Leonid M. Kushenko, 29, was released from the Alaska state jail at Anchorage at noon Monday after a representative of the Soviet Embassy in Washington paid his $10,000 fine.

The embassy official, Third Secretary Yuri V. Chemokhud, said in an interview that the Soviet government "takes severe measures against those masters of our fishing fleet who violate U.S. territorial fishing rights."

Matthews Sets Vassar Speech on Convention

The Constitutional Convention will be title of one of eight workshops to be held at the time of the Mid-Hudson Chapter of the National Association of Social Worker's 6th Annual Institute which will be held Thursday, March 30 at Vassar College in Poughkeepsie.

The workshop will relate itself to the forthcoming New York State Constitutional Convention. The discussion will be led by S. James Matthews of Ulster County, it was announced by John Flemmings, chairman of the all-day conference.

Over 700 social workers, educators, community workers and interested individuals from the entire Hudson Valley are expected to attend and participate at the conference.

Individuals who are interested in attending the conference may register between 9 and 10 a. m. Thursday, at Vassar College in Poughkeepsie.

Trade Charges On Power Plan Of Governor's

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Senate's ranking Democrat accuses the State Power Authority and the Public Service Commission of "groveling at the feet of the private utility companies."

At the same time, the Power Authority chairman retorts that the charges by Senate Minority Leader Joseph Zaretzki are "irresponsible."

Proposes Bi-Partisan

The exchange came against a background of ferment over Gov. Rockefeller's $3-billion plan to expand the state's electric-power supply as the Senate dealt with a number of bills.

Democrats, including Zaretzki, have charged that the governor's proposal would raise the cost of electricity and give private utilities "an uncontrollable monopoly" over nuclear-based electric-generating facilities.

The Republican governor has said his plan to build nuclear power plants would result in a doubling of the electric-power output.

Zaretzki noted Monday that both commissions now are made up of Republicans — all appointed by the governor. He proposed that the two bodies be made bi-partisan.

"The supine posture of both of these commissions groveling at the feet of the private utility companies is a sad substitute for a public defender," he said. "Mandating bi-partisan membership will put a little backbone in these spineless commissions."

James A. Fitzpatrick of Plattsburgh, Power Authority chairman, replied that the record of his agency "speaks for itself and needs no defense against Sen. Zaretzki's irresponsible charges."

Other Developments

In other legislative developments Monday as only the Senate met:

—A measure to permit construction of another state-operated ski resort in the Adirondack Forest Preserve gained endorsement, 44-10. The bill requires a constitutional amendment.

—The Senate approved a bill that would bar salesmen or roadside stand operators from giving their trade on state highways, except where the roads pass through cities or villages.

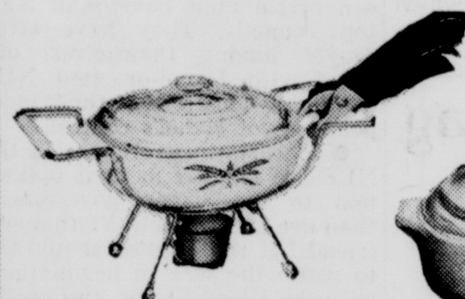

—A measure that would prohibit the sale of knives in New York City for other than household, tools or hunting use earned near-unanimous support, 54-1.

Meanwhile, Rockefeller said he would send the Legislature a bill to set up a new interstate commission to battle air pollution. The proposed group would include the governors of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Connecticut and Delaware, plus a representative of the federal government.

U. S. CONVENTION

The quiet campaign led by Senator Everett Dirksen to call a constitutional convention for the ostensible purpose of nullifying by amendment the Supreme Court's one-man, one-vote ruling has succeeded in 32 states, two away from the required two-thirds of all the states.

Senator William Proxmire of Wisconsin and Senator Joseph D. Tydings of Maryland, both Democrats, urged Congress to reject 26 of the 32 state legislative petitions on the ground that only six of the legislatures were properly apportioned when they formally called on Congress to convene a Constitutional convention.

The legislatures making the petitions want to overrule the Supreme Court's ruling on the ground that it violates the Constitution and that the court made laws, not interpreted the laws, made by Congress in this instance.

If and when called, there doesn't seem to be any stopping to consideration of any number of amendments in any number of fields. Many would want the income tax abolished, the ruling on prayer in schools reversed and the further curtailment of power of the federal government in a variety of ways.

Only one other constitutional convention has ever been held, that of 1787 when the Constitution itself was written. Since then, all 25 amendments to the nation's basic document have been passed by Congress and subsequently ratified by states.

COOPERATE WITH POLICE

Reluctance of citizens to volunteer information, which could help police agencies apprehend suspects, for fear of court involvement and reprisals no longer can be accepted as valid. The Supreme Court has ruled that the Constitution does not require police to reveal the names of informers who tipped them off about crimes.

The majority opinion strikes a new blow upholding law enforcement officers in the prosecution of their duties after a series of decisions restricting the police, notably those rejecting confessions without notifying the suspect of his rights, and throwing out wiretapping and electronic eavesdropping.

Justice Stewart, who wrote the opinion, ruled that police can make an arrest based upon tips from unidentified informers, search the arrested person without a warrant and use evidence obtained in the search without disclosing the identity of the informant who initiated the process. Otherwise, he held the government would be severely hampered in enforcing the narcotics law.

The ruling will be especially useful in enforcing narcotics laws, in which searches usually unearth quantities of drugs that are easily hidden from surveillance.

Citizens should cooperate with law enforcement authorities in the arrest and conviction of criminals. It is a civic duty and an obligation on the part of every conscientious citizen to report to the police potential troublemakers and suspicious and unusual activities.

LESSON IN DEMOCRACY

When Soviet leaders snubbed former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and refused to talk to him in Moscow on his current fact-finding world tour, he had a pointed lesson for them. "A government without an opposition is apparently unwilling to recognize the opposition party in another country," he said. This despite the fact that in eight years as Vice President, Nixon had shown Soviet missions to this country all proper official courtesies.

However, it did not stop the man who on one occasion had stood up to Nikita S. Khrushchev and debated with him the superiority of American kitchen equipment at a trade fair he had opened in Moscow. As the citizen of a good republic, Nixon went to the Soviet people and the officials did not dare to stop him there. In Alma Ata in Central Asia, Nixon told a group of factory workers who wanted to know why the United States does not make peace in Vietnam: "South Vietnam asked us for help just as your country did against Hitler and we helped Vietnam and are still helping her to remain independent just as we helped you in World War II."

'These Days'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

THE REALITIES OF TRADE WITH RUSSIA

Now that the consular treaty with the Soviets has been ratified, the propaganda for increasing our trade with the East is being turned on full force. What is objectionable about this is that the propagandists aren't really putting in a pitch for normal commercial relations; they are asking that the U. S. taxpayer be required to subsidize shipments to the Soviet East without any guarantee that Joe Doakes, as someone who is neither a banker nor a favored industrialist, will ever get back what he puts out to make the shipments possible.

The misconceptions surrounding the "bridge building by trade" campaign are to be found in the very highest circles. Thus Lyndon Johnson's roving ambassador, Averell Harriman, has called opponents of increased East-West trade, "pig-headed people" who "have prevented us from helping our balance of payments. Backing Harriman up, a columnist who is close to the White House says of trade with the Soviets that "this nation's two centuries of experience in sensible capitalism give an almost absolute guarantee that in this form of competition we cannot possibly lose." The only trouble with Harriman and his columnist supporter is that trade with Moscow must, in the nature of things, be neutral as regards its effect on our balance of payments.

Trade with the Soviets doesn't mean that a Russian merchant buys dollars with his rubles in the foreign exchange market to finance import goods originating in Toledo, Ohio, or Detroit, Michigan. When machine tools go to Moscow, nobody in this country receives dollars from any Russian, or even a barter exchange of caviar, vodka, furs or leather.

In the grandiose plans that are now afoot, the Export-Import Bank, whose capital derives ultimately from money taken from Western taxpayers, would set up a long-term credit for the Soviets on its books. Dollars from this credit fund would go to the U. S. manufacturer who "sells" his machine tools to Russia. But this would in effect be an internal payment inside the U. S.; no "hard" dollars derived from commerce would be flowing back to this country, and the impact on our international balance of payments situation would be a phony bookkeeping matter. We would, in effect, be giving our wealth away in expectation that the Soviets might get around to compensating us in the distant future.

Is it reasonable to expect that we should ever get back something commensurate with what we would be putting out? Well, the Soviets never did settle up, except very, very meagerly, for what they got on Lend-Lease from us during the war. They might even blackmail us by threats to withhold from the Export-Import Bank its own money.

The argument that "two centuries of experience in sensible capitalism" gives us an advantage over the Russians in trading is completely beside the point. For "sensible capitalism" implies that buyer and seller meet each other in a market with freedom to dicker. The terms of ordinary trade are set by what followers of Adam Smith used to call the "higgling of the market," and the higgling under "sensible capitalism" is produced by the availability of foreign exchange as well as by the supply and demand for goods. Credit under "sensible capitalism" is normally of the sixty- or ninety-day variety. Thus the debts caused by normal trade are extinguished every two or three months. Deadbeats can't last very long in such a market, so the seller is reasonably sure of getting his money.

If the proponents of "bridge building" to the East were advocating normal commercial transactions between importers and exporters, with debts extinguished every few months, it would be one thing. If they were suggesting long-term credits granted by financial institutions using their own resources, it would also be acceptable. Private bankers don't lend great sums of money without reasonable security. But trade that is paid for by what amounts to a subsidy wrung from the taxpayer is something outside the orbit of "two centuries of experience in sensible capitalism."

If our foreign policy requires that the taxpayer must hold the bag for long-term deals, it could be that the U. S. Congress should support such a policy. But it should be clearly labeled for what it is, not presented to the people as a normal commercial proposition something like the early nineteenth-century Salem voyages to China which started "sensible capitalism" on its way.

Some Drugs Helpful, But Cancer Cure Undiscovered

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
(First of two related articles)

Q—What causes leukemia? What is the best treatment?

A—The cause of leukemia, sometimes referred to as cancer of the blood, is unknown, but it is believed to be a virus. If this proves to be true we still don't know how the virus enters the body. It does not appear to be transmitted directly from one victim to another as in the case with some viral diseases. In some persons heavy exposure to benzene and a variety of other chemicals has precipitated myelogenous or myelocytic leukemia.

For many years deep X-ray treatment applied to the spleen was the treatment of choice for myelogenous leukemia but it has largely been replaced by treatment with busulfan (Myleran). For lymphatic or lymphocytic leukemia the drug of choice is chlorambucil (Leukeran). Helpful as these and other drugs are, we are still a long way from discovering a real cure for this disease.

The chief difficulty in finding a drug powerful enough to kill the malignant cells that will not cause severe damage to the normal cells of the body.

Q—Does leukemia cause bruises to be slow to disappear?

A—In persons with leukemia, black and blue marks may occur following slight trauma. Superficial wounds may bleed profusely and healing is slow.

Q—I have heard that there is a better drug than Myleran for the control of myelocytic leukemia but that the government has not released it for general use. Is this so and, if so, why?

A—New drugs, are constantly being put forward as beneficial in the treatment of leukemia and other serious diseases. Most of them are found to have little or no advantage over those already in use and, in the case of leukemia, none are cures. The Food and Drug Administration has the responsibility of protecting the public from the widespread use of any new drug until its effectiveness and its possible harmful effects have been fully evaluated.

Q—My grandfather, grandmother, two uncles, a cousin, a brother and a sister died of cancer. What are the chances of me getting it?

A—The cause of cancer is not known. Recent studies of twins indicate that heredity is not a factor as was once believed. When cancer strikes several members of a family we believe that this is purely a matter of chance, like throwing heads with a coin six times in a row.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Too bad Nixon is making such a flying visit. Campaigning like that in the Soviet Union, he might change the minds of a lot of people about America's position in Vietnam and why they should support us as we did them 20 years ago. The Russians seem to bring out the fighter in Nixon just as Khrushchev did. Maybe that is why the present leaders avoided him.

The Irony Is, the More Insistent the Demand for Peace, the Higher the Price We Must Pay for It!

ED VALTMAN, THE HARTFORD TIMES

Washington News

By BRUCE BLOSSAT,
Washington Correspondent,
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA) When talk turns to the prospect of negotiation over the war in Vietnam, many of the people who urge including the Viet Cong-National Liberation Front muster an imposing array of myths to support their notion that the NFL is broadly representative of rebellious South Vietnamese.

Some who urge this course have actually created and helped mightily to foster major misconceptions about the NFL.

Here are a few, but only a few, of the key myths which are regularly employed to back up the argument that the NFL should be treated as the authentic voice of indigenous southern rebels:

● Non-Communists of southern origin bulk heavily in NFL top councils. They have often fought among themselves, differed with Hanoi-oriented NFL members. This proves their independence of Hanoi's control.

● The southern rebels in the NFL are tougher in their opposition to the Saigon government than are their North Vietnamese friends. If these latter should try to settle the war in negotiations with the United States, the southern Viet Cong-NFL might very likely continue to fight hard on their own.

● This is possible because the NFL basically is a spontaneous organized expression of the political, economic and social grievances the insurgent southern Vietnamese have built up against Saigon.

According to Douglas Pike, a former USIA official who spent six years in Vietnam studying the NFL (mostly through its own or otherwise available) the Front's "independence" is pure fiction.

In his book, "Viet Cong," he cites a memorandum of Hanoi's Lao Dong (Communist) party proposing an NFL for the south—and itself as an organizing member.

Many other documents indicate that Lao Dong leaders wished the new organization to get as broad-based and "southern" as possible since little would be gained if it functioned as a narrow, hard-core Communist group visibly ruled from Hanoi.

The late Bernard Fall, the scholar now so often cited by critics of U.S. policy, in fact supported fully Pike's version of the Hanoi-controlled Reds.

If the NFL were truly representative of the south, truly a vehicle for the anti-Saigon grievances of the rebels, one would expect to find its membership at peak level when opposition to the controversial regime of the late Premier Diem was at its greatest and most vocal.

Pike's researches show, however, that NFL membership hit a high of 300,000 in early 1962, long before the critical period leading to Diem's fall, and never rose above that figure. And the NFL took no real part in that critical stirring.

Hanoi appeared to fear that Diem's early removal would take important steam out of its "mass rebellion," and chose that crisis to tighten Red control of the NFL. Its fears were not groundless. NFL membership dropped between 50,000 and 100,000 after Diem was disposed and killed. Anti-Diem religious sects pulled out.

The notion that the Viet Cong-NFL would fight on if Hanoi yielded is also ill-founded. Documents show again and again that, to the extent truly southern-oriented NFL members were able to express themselves, they were always more receptive than Hanoi to two propositions regarded as "soft"—a genuine coalition government admitting elements of the Saigon regime to key membership, and real neutralization of South Vietnam, enforced by workable international guarantees.

It is long since established that many South Vietnamese not dedicated to Hanoi had real grievances against Saigon. But the NFL and Viet Cong did not arise spontaneously as their organized expression. As Pike and Fall assert, the NFL was sprung full-blown upon the South Vietnamese countryside, a masterpiece of organizational skills far beyond the talents of untutored but complaining southern villagers.

Grievances did not produce the NFL. The NFL exploited and organized grievances. But their simple redress, a reasonable goal for a "spontaneous" revolutionary uprising, was not its actual objective. Its thoroughly documented purpose, openly or secretly set forth as place and occasion demand, is "reunification of the fatherland" under Hanoi's control—and creation of a full socialist Communist state throughout the unified land.

DO YOU REMEMBER

By Sophie Miller

From time to time I am asked about George Washington being in Kingston. Judge Clearwater tells how on Nov. 16th, 1782, Washington came to Kingston. The Consistory of the First Dutch Church by unanimous consent—representing the patriotic, social and prominent people of the community—bade him welcome in an address that ranks high in the annals of the Revolution. To this he replied in an autographed letter still preserved in the archives of that historic church.

According to Clearwater, Washington "put up" at the Bogardus Tavern which stood where the residence of the late Myron Teller stood in 1929. Accompanied by his staff, George Washington dined with Judge Dirck Wynkoop and charming daughter, 'Aunt Peggy' who was a child when she attended that famous dinner. She was, in years to come, a close friend of Judge Clearwater.

The residents of Kingston gave Washington a magnificent ball at the Bogardus Tavern where Washington danced a quadrille, the first two figures with the beautiful Miss Houghton, changing partners at the third figure to dance with the equally charming Sarah Van Gaasbeck, who subsequently became a friend of Aaron Burr. This then is the historic social life of the colonial city of Kingston, now in the midst of many changes. Washington really slept here.

April 6th, 1805, Kingston was incorporated. The question of a seal often arises. Clearwater explains that the village of Kingston adopted a corporate seal, of a golden eagle, (there being many of them then in the Catskills.) with outstretched wings holding a palm branch in its talon. When asked why not an olive branch, they replied that the palm was the emblem of victory, after their long struggle for liberty. The name of the village encircles the device, with a background of the golden rays of the rising sun.

The burning of Kingston by the British, Sir John Vaughan in 1777 was never forgotten by the residents, and to this day owners of the old stone houses will point to the still charred beams with pride. A new Court House and fire-proof County Clerk's Office and Surrogate's Office were built in 1818, the lines of the buildings burned by Vaughan being preserved as far as possible.

Then Clearwater speaks about the Delaware and Hudson Canal, whose history is being revived today by a Society enthused by this interesting canal, which began July 1825 and opened for navigation in October, 1828. James S. McEntee was the resident engineer. He, with John B. Jervis, designed and executed the construction of it, with its tide water terminal docks at the Strand. He mentions an 1840 lithograph which shows Rondout having 43 dwellings, 24 vessels at anchor and 9 storehouses. It was shortly after this date that Thomas Cornell organized the Cornell Steamboat Company, which became—and continued to be—the most important steamboat organization of its kind in the country, wrote Judge Clearwater in 1929. The readers can now see the destruction by those in charge of our city in 1967 of the famous Cornell building. Remember the large double doors, the hardware, the windows, the brick and bluestone. The building which was cool in the summer with a view of the Rondout Creek and river, and warm in the winter. They had walk-in vaults on each floor, and some said as many as 20 were built in the building. Rondout was incorporated as a village on May 8, 1849. George F. Von Beck was chosen President. Directors were Edward Suydam, Terrence O'Reilly, William H. Bridger and Michael Dougherty. Both villages grew and prospered, but Rondout and The Strand were known along the Canal and Hudson as the place to shop for boat supplies, food, clothing, etc.

TODAY IN HISTORY

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Tuesday, March 28, the 87th day of 1967. There are 278 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1834, the Senate resolved that President Andrew Jackson had exceeded his authority when he removed public deposits from the United States Bank and deposited them in state banks.

Ten years ago — The British released from exile the Greek Cypriot leader, Archbishop Makarios, after he made a personal plea for an end to violence on Cyprus where Terrorists were trying to force the union of the British colony with Greece.

Five years ago — Argentine military leaders staged a coup d'etat, overthrowing the government of President Arturo Frondizi.

Challenges Bundy Statement
On Donations for Education

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Sometimes the American people read in the newspapers excerpts from a public statement by a prominent man, but they don't always learn the answer to criticisms he makes. A case in point is the recent report by McGeorge Bundy, president of the Ford Foundation and former special adviser to Presidents Kennedy and Johnson. Mr. Bundy criticized "The American Rich, old and new," for their "relatively slow and feeble giving" to education. Most people, however, do not have available the facts on the subject and are therefore unaware that in 1965 individuals and corporations donated more than 10 billion dollars to charity, and gave a substantial amount of it for educational purposes.

Contributions for all causes in the year 1965 totalled 11.3 billion dollars, according to the American Association of Fund-Raising Counsel, Inc. Its report shows that foundations gave 1.125 billion, but corporations and individuals, including bequests through wills, donated a total of 10.175 billion dollars. A further breakdown of all the 1965 contributions reveals that 17 per cent—or 1.921 billion dollars—was given for education.

A special survey was made by the council for financial aid to Education, Inc., of contributions for the 1964-65 school year. Its report disclosed that individuals gave 44.8 per cent and corporations, 14 per cent—or a total of 58.8 per cent. Foundations contributed 28.7 per cent. The remaining 12.5 per cent came from religious denominations and other sources.

There is nothing in any of the tabulations to indicate that either business or wealthy individuals have failed to contribute in a generous way to education in America. In fact, more money is being given for educational than for health purposes. Religion takes practically one-half of all the contributions made, and welfare gets about 13 per cent.

Fund-raising in the United States has been accelerated in recent years. Since 1954, the total giving has more than doubled—from 5.4 billion dollars in 1954 to 11.3 billions in 1965. During the same period, to be sure, the nation's output of goods and services—the gross national product—rose by 87 per cent. But total giving actually increased by 109.3 per cent—far more rapidly than did the gross national product. So it can hardly be said that the people of all income groups are not giving generously to education and for other charitable purposes.

In the coming years, the federal government as well as the states will be increasing substantially their appropriations for education, but the public institutions will benefit most from such policies. Though some grants are being made to private institutions, barriers are raised in Congress whenever federal funds are proposed for universities or colleges or schools which are supported by religious denominations. This puts an even heavier burden on citizens of particular faiths which operate schools of their own faith.

The figures do, however, indicate clearly that corporations and individuals connected with large and small businesses are contributing heavily to education and welfare causes. Mr. Bundy's remarks will come as a surprise indeed to the persons actually engaged in fund-raising throughout the United States who are collecting each year a huge proportion of their funds from persons of higher-than-average incomes.

Foundations set up by businessmen also are a substantial source of contributions and have served a useful purpose in America. The Ford Foundation, which Mr. Bundy now heads, was itself created by a man who made his fortune in the business of manufacturing automobiles.

Every year the newspapers tell of large sums going into newly formed foundations through the bequests of businessmen. The tax laws, of course, provide that such gifts are not subject to huge levies. A tax as high as 77 per cent is imposed on big estates which are left on individuals. Money without limit, however, can be bequeathed to a non-profit institution and is not subject to inheritance taxes. (Copyright, 1967, Publishers Newspaper Syndicate)

On Constitution Call

By JAMES MARLOW

AP News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — Just two more states and there will be a mishmash unlike anything in 180 years.

Thirty-two state legislatures, just two short of a required two-thirds, have asked Congress to call a constitutional convention on the one-man-one-vote decision of the Supreme Court.

All Big Fuzz Now

This would be the first such convention since 1787 if those other two states asked Congress agreed. There's doubt it would. For how Congress would agree or just getting to do it, is all a big fuzz now.

In 1964 the court held that districts in both houses of state legislatures must be "substantially" equal in population. Only a few states met that standard then. The courts have ordered the rest to get in line.

Under the court's thinking rural areas had long held more legislative seats than they were entitled to in proportion to the number held by the more densely populated cities. This became known as the one-man-one-vote decision.

It encountered furious objections which, although one state after another has reapportioned its legislature, haven't disappeared. One of the most vocal objectors was, and is, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois.

This leader of the Senate Republicans tried twice, in 1965 and 1966, to get the Senate to approve a constitutional amendment undoing the court's ruling. Each time he lost by seven votes.

States Took Hint

His amendment would let the people in a state decide whether they wanted to apportion one branch of their legislature on some basis besides population. This didn't work and something else was tried by the states themselves.

Although the court's decision wasn't made until 1964, it indicated what was coming as early as 1962 when it said legislatures' districts were subject to scrutiny by the federal courts. States took the hint.

In 1963 some of them began petitioning Congress for the constitutional convention. The real petition rush began after the 1964 action. Until now 32 states have asked for the convention. They could take this road to circumvent the court because of Article 5 in the Constitution. It says two things:

1. Congress by a two-thirds vote of each house can propose a constitutional amendment which then must be approved by three-fourths of the states. All 25 amendments have been added that way.

2. Or, two-thirds of the states can ask Congress to call a convention to propose amendments which also would have to be approved by three-fourths of the states, either by their legislatures or by conventions in those states, with Congress deciding which it should be.

While Dirksen and others have labored for such state action, they have plenty of opponents, including Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., who announced last week that 26 of the 32 legislatures who were asked for a convention were illegally apportioned when they did the asking. In most cases since then, he said, the courts have ordered them to reapportion themselves and "in most cases they have."

He said for Congress to heed the petitions of 26 illegally apportioned legislatures would be like "permitting all Democrats to have two votes in a referendum to determine whether Democrats should have two votes."

Here Proxmire was offering one reason for Congress to ignore the petitions. Confusion seems unending in other nations and objections raised. Even if Congress tried to vote approval for a convention, fierce filibusters almost certainly would seek to block it.

Time, one argument goes, has outlasted some of the petitions because they were made by some state legislatures no longer in existence and were addressed to the 89th Congress. It's the 90th doing business now.

And, if the convention were called, would it be limited to the one-man-one-vote problem, or would it consider other kinds of amendment? If the latter, then the convention might become a nightmare. And how would such a convention be organized? How many delegates would each state have? Congress would have to decide.

Youth Has Easter Fling: 'Love-In,' 'Be-In,' on Coasts

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Youth had its fling over the Easter weekend, mainly at several East and Gulf Coast resorts. But it wasn't all rioting and arrests as the mod set staged a West Coast "Love-In" and a Manhattan "Be-In."

Sighs of Relief
Police heaved sighs of relief Sunday as more than 40,000 college students headed back to classes, leaving some beaches strewn with beer cans and other debris.

At Fort Lauderdale, Fla., the bulk of 30,000 college boys and girls began a mass exodus to various campuses. There were 500 in the young army of revelers arrested for drunkenness, rowdiness, loitering and interfering with police activities from Thursday through Sunday. Early Sunday, 16 youths were arrested by Fort Lauderdale police after they pelted officers with firecrackers. A van taking them to jail burst into flames but the driver quickly opened the door and averted serious injury.

The visiting young people at Daytona Beach, Fla., found that local authorities eliminated seaside roistering with a ban on beer-drinking on the beach.

Easter Rain Helps
At Biloxi, Miss., an Easter Sunday rain put a damper on the rollicking activities of some 10,000 college students. "It seems to have taken the cool out of them," a Biloxi policeman said.

Before the rain, however, 85 youths had been arrested on such charges as disorderly conduct, destroying property, drunken driving, interfering with highway traffic and indecent exposure. Police Chief Louis Rosetti said, "It's a mess. They've been breaking windshields of cars, tearing up lawn chairs, and tearing down piers to build bonfires."

On Saturday, police cleared the beach of beer-swilling students as Rosetti announced: "We're not letting them camp on the beach."

At Ocean Drive Beach, S.C., several hundred college and high school students began rioting Saturday midnight. By the time the fracas was broken up at 2 a.m., a policeman had been cut by a broken bottle and some 150 students were in jail.

In Hollywood, Calif., early Sunday about 500 teen-agers became unruly as they left the International Teen Fair. They were tossing bottles and rocks at passing cars when police closed in. Fifteen were arrested but there were no injuries and little property damage. Another 500 youths attending the affair took no part in the melee.

At Los Angeles, 4,500 bearded and miniskirted hippies gathered at Elvins Park Sunday for a "Love-In."

"Christ is here with us," baty," said Peter Berman, who helped organize the encampment. "So is Buddha."

Sounds at the gathering included mainly bonco drums, bells, guitars, and group singing. Some recited poetry and made speeches. The only problem was the giant traffic jam around the park.

In New York's Central Park, 10,000 members of the beard-and-sandal crowd staged the city's first "Be-In," featuring love and "hauntings." The girls wore painted faces (such as "love") while a number of the boys were bare-chested and barefoot under sunny skies.

Some flew kites, others played marbles, a number slept, and an even greater number just watched.

One group of about 1,000 demonstrated good fellowship about every 15 minutes or so by joining hands in a "love circle."

Corporate Head Now Has Much Sympathy For Johnson, Aides

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the second of two columns on business-government relations based on exclusive interviews with John T. Connor, former secretary of commerce and now president of Allied Chemical Corp.

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — John Connor, until mid-January the secretary of commerce and now president of Allied Chemical Corp., returned from Washington to the corporate life with a great appreciation of bureaucrats.

Even More Barriers
"Management of the existing programs in government takes the same skills and experience as in corporate work," he said in an interview. "But you have even more barriers."

The sheer size of administering the federal government is staggering, he discovered.

"Now I have more sympathy for the problems of the president and for the heads of departments and agencies, and an appreciation of the high caliber of career employees," he said.

This, of course, is hardly a general feeling among certain corporate executives who believe Washington does not understand them, doesn't care that it doesn't understand them and is even antagonistic towards them.

Because he has seen the best and worst of both worlds, so often at odds, Connor has evolved this insight:

"On any problems of this kind (public interest) if you communicate with the leaders of business the nature of the problem and present them a reasonable plan for solving it, I am convinced you can have their cooperation."

Almost Complete Success
Such cooperation, Connor feels, is a far superior method than legislation, which some observers of all political shades say from time to time is circumscribing the business community.

Connor had almost complete success in proving this theory, he being the administrator of a plan to help improve the adverse balance of payments situation by asking business to voluntarily restrain from shipping American dollars abroad.

"We went to the corporate heads," he said. "We asked their advice. They suggested a minimum of red tape would be advisable and we took that advice. We wanted results, not a bunch of papers piled up in Washington."

"We delegated as much authority as possible to the heads of these companies rather than using the powers of government," he continued, explaining that the same results could have been achieved in other ways but at a price in bitterness.

"This program is important for its own sake, and as a symbol of what can be done," he continued. "The alternative was to impose a punitive tax to discourage direct foreign investments, or to seek capital controls."

Communism Creaky, Obsolete After 50 Years

EDITOR'S NOTE — Nearly a half-century ago, communism took over its first country — Russia. Since then it's made considerable gains. But today the machinery of world revolution seems creaky and a little obsolete. This is the first of three articles analyzing the state of world communism.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

The system its advocates loosely call "communism" is now 50 years old as a going concern. It has had ailments, chief among which is the fact that it never got to be communism.

From the look of things, it never will.

Losing Ground
Overall, around the world, communism as a political faith has been losing ground in recent years, probably because it is its own worst enemy.

By the definitions of its prophets, communism was supposed to be a system of "to each according to his needs, from each according to his ability." It was supposed to be the wave of the future. Communism would be achieved by stages: dictatorship of the proletariat, socialism and then the final goal, communism. There would be abundance. Governments would be unnecessary and would wither away.

Today even the Soviet leaders, who consider their system the prototype for all others, do not claim to be within decades of "communism."

Nowhere in their world have the Communists been able to produce an economy of abundance to compare even remotely to that of the United States.

China Is Example
In some nations where the party rule — China is a prime example — the thing it calls communism has the look of mass lunacy.

As a world movement, communism seems to have lost much of its capacity to terrorize politicians, notably in Africa, Asia and Latin America. Governments now familiar with its weaknesses have become better able to cope with its ambitions. Where it is relatively strong, communism must depend on alliances and compromises thus adulterating the doctrine.

Moscow still claims to be the fountainhead of all Red wisdom and leader of a "world movement," claims there are 88 Communist parties in the world today, with 50 million members. But Western intelligence sources report that Communist party hard-core membership outside the Communist bloc is in the neighborhood of only three million. The same sources report that the card-carrying party strength in 1966 was 40 per cent less than in 1964.

IEEE to Hear Princeton Staff Researcher: 3rd

The Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers, Catskill Subsection, will hear Dr. Milton A. Rothman at its meeting Monday, April 3, at Rotron Manufacturing Co., Woodstock.

Dr. Rothman, a member of the research staff of Princeton University, will speak on plasma physics and thermonuclear power research. The meeting, open to the public, will start at 8 p. m.

Dr. Rothman's talk will be illustrated with slides. The nuclear reactions which power the hydrogen bomb can be slowed down and put to work generating electricity if certain requirements are met. Dr. Rothman will discuss these requirements, and also the problems which have been encountered. These problems have been mainly related to the appearance of instabilities which cause the plasma to be lost from the container faster than anticipated. Methods for opposing these instabilities are being studied.

Dr. Rothman received his BS Degree in electrical engineering from Oregon State College and his Ph.D. in physics from the University of Pennsylvania. He worked in nuclear physics research at the Bartol Research Foundation in Swarthmore, Pa., and since 1959 has been engaged in plasma physics research at the Princeton University, Plasma Physics Laboratory. Main area of research by Dr. Rothman has been in the heating of plasma by absorption of electromagnetic waves.

Although snow remains on the ground in most areas of the county Ulster County Fire Control Center on Golden Hill is receiving calls for grass fires. One of the first came at 3:20 p. m. At 6:35 p. m. a chimney fire on the Walter Parades premises at Tillson and at 11:58 p. m. Highland firemen were called out for a fire in a clothes dryer.

Captain Labels War as Unjust, To Balk Order

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — A 12-year Air Force veteran and former instructor at the Air Force Academy said Monday in a news conference that "the war in Vietnam is unjust and immoral, and if ordered to do so, I shall refuse to fight in the war."

Earlier in the day, attorneys for Capt. Dale E. Novd, 33, filed a suit in U.S. District Court seeking a change in his orders which could lead to combat duty in Vietnam.

The suit, filed in Novd's behalf by the American Civil Liberties Union, asks the court to order his superiors to accept his resignation or to assign him to duties which are consistent with his religious beliefs.

Named as defendants are Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara; Lt. Gen. Thomas S. Moorman, Air Academy superintendent; the director of Selective Service, and six others.

Novd contends that prior to Dec. 8, 1966, he became convinced he was opposed to the Vietnam war and tried to resign his commission but was turned down.

He said he then filed for conscientious objector status which was denied Jan. 31.

The next day he was ordered to report April 1 to Cannon Air Force Base, N.M., to receive training in the F100 jet fighter.

Rochester Man Killed seems to be that it wants the best possible of both Communist and capitalist worlds. Its national interests, its eagerness for foreign trade and its quest for Soviet influence abroad — as opposed to simply world Communist influence — have all got the way of the revolutionary movement.

So have Moscow's own difficulties at home. When the Soviet party placed writers on trial and sentenced them to corrective hard labor for what they wrote, the Soviet image suffered abroad and Communist parties were hurt in free-wheeling Western Europe.

Underscored Failure
When Soviet Communists turned Westward for grain, as they did under Nikita Khrushchev, they underscored a failure of the communism which can produce nuclear bombs and missiles but cannot whip the problem of feeding the population.

Once again, Communists abroad, particularly in the prosperous West, were embarrassed.

When Communist China's policies fell flat in Indonesia, when they were rebuked time after time in Africa, communism as a political movement suffered.

When China exploded into incredible chaos, Red dogma was made to look ridiculous abroad.

When Fidel Castro snapped angrily at his Soviet benefactors for failure to help promote violent revolution in Latin America, he exposed basic weaknesses of the movement.

Thus, the over-all picture in the Communist world today is one of disarray, bickering among parties, conflict over national interests and spheres of influence. The term "world Communist movement" has become just a phrase. There is no unified world Communist movement.

Three Are Hurt In Haines Falls Highway Mishap

Three persons were injured in a two-car accident Monday night on Route 32-A, at Haines Falls, Town of Hunter, and the operators of both vehicles were issued summonses for violation of the Vehicle and Traffic Law. None of the injured required hospitalization.

At about 9:45 p. m. William Whitaker, 60, of Haines Falls, stopped his car partially on the pavement to discharge a passenger, Elsie Hommel, 42, of Haines Falls. A car operated by James Conan, 40, of Amsterdam, also headed east on 32-A, struck the Whitaker car in the rear. The Whitaker car was driven ahead 45 feet before coming to rest.

Whitaker received contusions of the head, Elsie Hommel received lacerations of the head and a possible back injury. Conan had a laceration of the head. They were treated at the scene by a physician.

Leeds Troopers J. Miller and D. Hall issued a summons to Whitaker for improper parking and Conan a summons for speed to great under conditions. They will appear before a justice of the peace later.

Lauderdale Hits Unwelcome View Of Fla. Attorney

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Civic and economic leaders agreed today the city had a swarming Easter as a playground for vacationing college students, but wouldn't go along with a prosecutor who called the frolickers "despicable" and unwelcome in the future.

City Commissioner Allen Forbes said statements Monday by State Atty. Roger H. Harper showed "an unfortunate attitude."

Suggests Crackdown
Harper told a Hollywood civic club that Fort Lauderdale ought to end its annual "college crud invasion. The time has come, to place this despicable class of tourists on notice it is no longer welcome in Broward County."

He suggested police and court crackdowns and "community ostracism" for those who come next year, and notice to all colleges that the students no longer are welcome.

About 30,000 young people thronged Fort Lauderdale beaches and streets over the weekend. Close to 500 were arrested between Thursday and Sunday, mostly for offenses related to drinking and disturbing the peace. Several delivery trucks were looted, a courtroom raided for souvenirs, and police officers roughed up.

Forbes said, "It's unfortunate there always are a few bad apples in the barrel." But, he said, less than one per cent of the visitors did enough to incur arrest "and this is amazing considering the potential electric atmosphere we had here." He said the throngs also included "our future leaders. It's all a part of being young."

Police said many of those arrested were not visiting collegians, but youngsters from Fort Lauderdale and neighboring south Florida cities.

City Commissioner James Leavitt said, "We should invite them back next year and tell them we're going to enforce law and order."

Best Bunch Ever
Fred Temple, who operates two motels, said, "They were both full mostly of college students. This year was the best bunch we ever had. They did less damage and caused less trouble."

"Of course there's always a certain group of undesirables. Most of these are riffraff from our own area."

Meanwhile Municipal Judge Stephen Booher was cleaning up a docket of 300 court cases stemming from the tumult. Most of the defendants pleaded guilty. Those who didn't had to post $500 bond for June appearance.

Police said students' parents, when contacted, seemed more exasperated than sympathetic to their sons' and daughters' plight.

"Plead guilty, stupid. I'll pay the fine," officers said one father told his son.

All-in-One Cosmetic Kit

The most valuable travel accessory for women travelers is an all-in-one cosmetic kit. A complete kit includes makeup for every contingency. It should contain a shade darker foundation to blend with newly acquired sun tans in your island hopping. Contrasting eye shadow and lipsticks to complement new coloring are also suggested. Pack a pair of spare false lashes, whiteners, brighteners and lighteners for gala nighttime entertainment. Travel-size versions of cologne, shampoo, hairspray and deodorant are also a must.

Reveal New Air Base in Portugal

By DENNIS F. REDMONT

BEJA, Portugal. (AP) — A huge airbase paid for mostly with West German marks that will eventually employ 3,000 West German men opens this summer near this quiet trading and wheat town 85 miles south-east of Lisbon.

Portuguese and West German officials have revealed little about the base since they began planning it within the framework of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in 1960. No official documents on their agreement have ever been published in Portuguese newspapers.

200 Living There

"The Portuguese government has been kind enough to have us as their guests," said a high officer among the 200 Germans already living in some of the 40 red-tiled barracks near the aluminum hangers. "This base is Portuguese and we are subject to Portuguese jurisdiction."

Although commanded and staffed by Portuguese officers, the base was planned by West German officials as a "fall back" in case of nuclear attack on their homeland. It will house three squadrons of jets able to strike back on short notice.

The base will have the latest jet engine test facilities in Western Europe and two runways long enough for new supersonic transport planes. NATO jet repair workshops will be transferred from Alverca, near Lisbon, to the base.

Manmade Port

It will also have a manmade port on the Atlantic and a supply depot in northern Portugal. West Germany is paying nearly three-quarters of the $60 million construction cost. In addition, the Germans are buying $105 million of Portuguese arms, providing therapy in German hospitals for soldiers injured fighting rebels in Portugal's African colony of Angola and helping to irrigate southern provinces of Portugal.

Albany Trying To Clear Desks For Adjournment

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller and the Legislature's leaders sought anew today to dispose of the key obstacle to adjournment of the Senate and Assembly this week — New York City's demands for more state aid.

The high-level focus today was on Mayor John V. Lindsay's fiscal woes and a handful of other tough issues on which the leadership must come to grips in the waning days of the 1967 session.

The leaders kept the phone lines humming until late Monday night in an intensive effort to resolve differences on such matters as the governor's transportation plan, proposals for compulsory health insurance and Rockefeller's electric-power proposals.

The pace of the adjournment push stepped up today as the Assembly ended its brief Easter recess and joined the Senate which met Monday to whittle away at the backlog of bills — most of them routine.

Looming large in the legislative picture was the onset of the State Constitutional Convention, scheduled to begin next week.

Two high-command conferences Monday—consuming more than two hours and a half — failed to produce any announcement of solid decisions.

The only clear conclusion observers could draw from inter-rogation of the leaders was that Speaker Anthony J. Travia harbored doubts as to New York City's actual financial needs.

MECHANICVILLE, N. Y. The two-story frame home of the Mechanicville Elks lodge was ruined early today by flames of undetermined origin. No one was reported injured. The loss was not determined.

Goshen GI Is Killed In Combat

Among the three GIs killed in combat in Vietnam this week was Army Spec. 4 Alan W. Andrews of Goshen, Orange County.

The Defense Department said Monday that Spec. Andrews was killed in action. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Chapman Andrews of 1 Magc Circle Drive.

Two From Upstate
Today's Associated Press report included two Upstate servicemen.

A 22-year-old Marine corporal from suburban Rochester, and an Army private first class, also 22, from Niagara Falls died in combat last week in South Vietnam, their families say.

The Marine was Richard F. Dunham, who while stationed in Guam last year, received a citation for displaying outstanding enthusiasm, military bearing, ability and initiative.

He later volunteered for duty in Vietnam, arriving there late last year, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis P. Dunham of Greece, said.

The details of Dunham's death and that of the soldier, Daniel J. Newman, were not known.

Was Welder

Newman, son of Mrs. Helen Newman, worked for a welding supply company for two years before entering the Army. He was a graduate of Trott Vocational High School in Niagara Falls.

Newman, whose father died about two years ago, leaves two sisters besides his mother.

His home address was 3625 Ferry Ave. In addition to his parents, Dunham's survivors include a brother, John, 15.

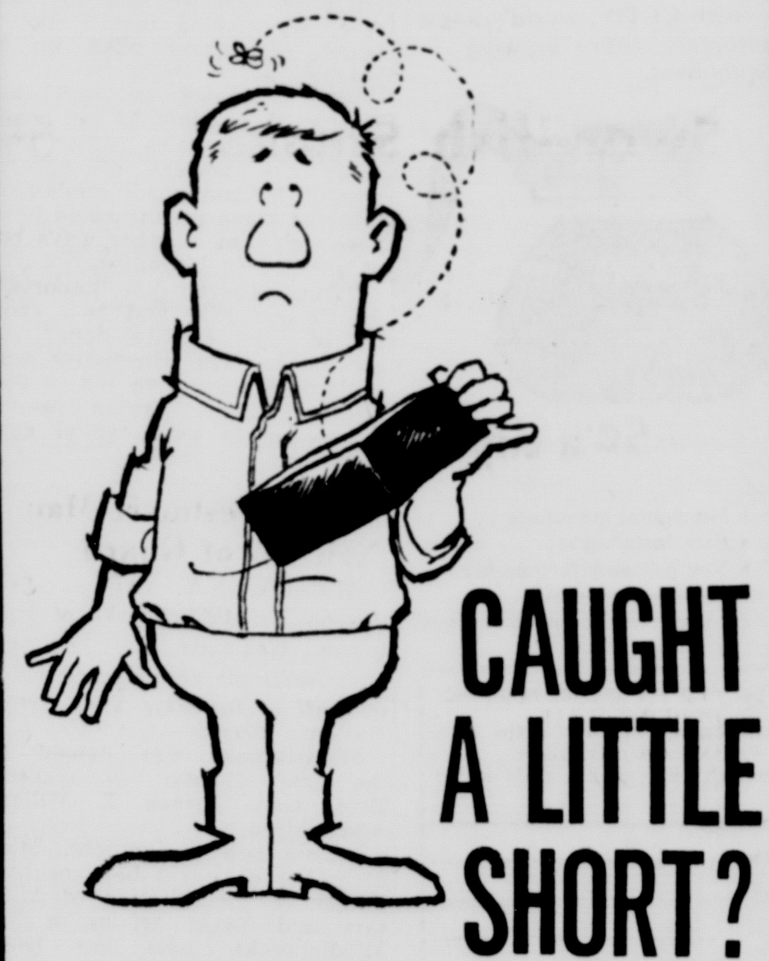

The Dunham family lives at 197 Cabot Rd. in Greece.

Boy Killed by Truck

CHAFEE, N. Y. (AP)—An 8-year-old boy was struck and killed Monday when, State Police say, he darted into the path of a pickup truck on a road near his home in this southern Erie County community.

He was Daniel M. Schneider, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald A. Schneider.

The family lives on Ocean Road.

Union Declares Troopers Barred From Organizing

An AFL-CIO affiliate representing over 13,000 state employees is demanding that the head of the state troopers give it equal treatment in connection with organizing state policemen.

New York State Employees Council 50, AFL-CIO, charges that Superintendent of State Police Arthur Cornelius Jr. is practicing discrimination in denying Council 50 the right to organize troopers, while at the same time he is showing favoritism by allowing the Civil Service Employees Association to recruit state policemen as members.

Top Scientist At Watervliet On Army Board

The assistant secretary of the Army for research and development, R. D. O'Neal, has announced the appointment of Dr. Robert E. Weigle, Watervliet Arsenal chief scientist, as a member of the Army Research Council.

The Council consists of eleven scientists, engineers, and research executives chosen from the Army's R&D community to advise Secretary O'Neal and the chief of army research and development, Lt. Gen. A. W. Betts, on matters concerning Army research and exploratory development.

Dr. Weigle who is also technical director of the arsenal's Benet Research and Engineering Laboratories, will concentrate his physical and mathematical sciences.

RPI Graduate
A native of Shiloh, Pa., Dr. Weigle is a 1951 graduate of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute where he also received his MS in mechanics and his PhD in mechanics and nuclear science. He was a member of the Mechanics Department faculty at the Troy college, before joining the arsenal staff as research director in 1959. He has been chief scientist since 1962.

Dr. Weigle has been awarded the Meritorious Civilian Service award for his conduct of the Shiloh gun launcher program at Watervliet, and holds a Presidential Citation for his part in the development of simulated test firing techniques.

He is a member of the Army's Mathematical Steering Committee, the Army's High Pressure Research Task Group, and consultant to the ordnance department, US Military Academy, West Point.

Affiliations
Other affiliations include: National Society of Professional Engineers, American Society For Experimental Stress Analysis, American Society of Mechanical Engineers, American Society for Testing Materials; and the honorific scientific fraternities: Sigma Xi, Tau Beta Pi, and Chi Epsilon.

Dr. and Mrs. Weigle and their son Geoffrey, 6, live at 191 Pine-ridge Dr., Guilderland.

Laud Finger Efforts
Army Private First Class Barry L. Finger, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil R. Finger, 20 Elm Street, Saugerties, along with other members of the 51st Medical Company located near Qui Nhon, has provided ground ambulance support for 18 combat operations in Vietnam.

The company has evacuated more than 37,000 troops with most of the medical missions taking place on the bumpy and hazardous roads of Vietnam's Central Highlands.

He is an ambulance orderly in the company.

U.S. Planes Are Fired Upon by Haiphong Ships

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. planes were fired on twice last year by Communist freighters in North Vietnam's Haiphong harbor, says the Pentagon.

But the Defense Department won't disclose the nationality of the ships or what kind of fire they directed at the American planes.

In neither instance, the Pentagon said Monday, was a U.S. plane hit. In neither case did the planes return the fire.

The Pentagon also refused to say whether the pilots were under orders to refrain from attacking their attackers.

Haiphong has been ruled off-limits from U.S. air attack. Normally pilots are allowed to attack antiaircraft and missile sites that hinder their missions over North Vietnam.

New Paltz Armed Forces Assembly
The guidance department at New Paltz Central School sponsored an Armed Forces Assembly for interested students in Grades 11-12. The session was held during the activity period. Representatives from the Army, Navy and Marines were present.

The session was opened by briefly explaining registration procedures, service obligations and various ways of meeting them. After this presentation the various representatives separated into sections of the auditorium and met with students. There were provision for two such meetings so that each student could speak with two representatives. Materials were distributed in these meetings so that the students could take home, study them more carefully and discuss it with their parents.

Present Senior Play
The production of Outward Bound at New Paltz Central School, was presented by the senior class and directed by Mrs. Harriet Cunningham on March 17 and 18. The stage settings were by Holly Reiser and Robert Rushforth. Ben Langwick at the lighting. Edward Hasbrouck in charge of sound effects. Joseph Morillo played the confused and unhappy young man, Edith Polhamus as the cockney char woman, Chester Wilson as the arrogant business man and Loni Shaffer played the final scene. David George as the aloof steward, Cindy Pallus, as the snobbish society woman, John Landau, strong as the unrelenting but casual examiner, Eric Stan-nyer, and earnest young minister and Bruce DuBois as the bewildered young "half-way."

It has been estimated that about one-fourth of the families in the United States move each year.

Advertiser and other regional newspapers. He served as director of seminars on typography at the American Press Institute, Columbia University.

Ky Offers 3-Step Plan For Viet Peace

GIO LINH, Vietnam (AP) — Premier Nguyen Cao Kv suggested today that Saigon is in a better position than Washington to handle peace feelers, and Kv offered his own three-step plan.

A complete cease-fire, two-way talks between Saigon and Hanoi and an international guarantee might achieve peace. Kv told newsmen aboard his private plane on a flight to the northern sector.

In answer to questions about peace feelers Kv said: "We are always hearing that the United States is starting talks with Moscow or Hanoi or somebody. Why? Why don't they stay in the background and let us deal with Hanoi and negotiate when the time is right?"

Settled Land

More land in the western United States was settled during the last three decades of the 19th century than in the nation's entire earlier history.

California Quake Due

A CLOSE WATCH is being kept on the fault by technologists at listening posts indicated on the map at right. Pictured above, they analyze seismograph readings and ground disturbances caused by the many minor quakes in the area each year. Above, one such quake displaced an asphalt road five inches. Building codes have been adopted, which hopefully will cut down on loss of life and property if the big quake comes.

Californians are warned that a major earthquake is likely sometime before the year 2,000, due to the restless San Andreas fault which has shifted 16 feet over the past century. The question remains whether cities, such as Los Angeles and San Francisco, are ready for a quake even larger than the one in 1906 that took hundreds of lives in the San Francisco Bay area.

TODAY'S THOUGHT
By JIM GILPATRICK
Last summer, a man asked another fellow, "What's your daughter doing this summer?" The frank answer was, "Her hair most of the time." So much is heard about youngsters not wanting, or even trying to earn a few dollars on their own, it is a real pleasure to cite some cases to the contrary.
Two brothers, age 9 and 11, got new customers with this sign on their backs while cutting grass: "WE DON'T JUST CUT YOUR LAWN, WE MANICURE IT." Several boys had shoe shining stands. One boy put up this sign: "FREE! FINE SHOE SHINE ON YOUR RIGHT FOOT FOR FREE! LEFT FOOT ONLY 25 CENTS." A group of youngsters were selling worms in a fishing area. One lad put up this sign: "WORMS WITH FISH APPEAL! ONLY 25 CENTS FOR A BIG DOZEN." A newspaper boy had this sign on his bicycle: "YOUR NEWSPAPER WRAPPED IN CELOPHANE ON RAINY DAYS!" An 8 year old girl was ringing door bells to sell Christmas seals. She sold a lot with this simple approach: "THESE COST A PENNY A PIECE, TEN CENTS FOR A SHEET. HOW MANY DO YOU WANT?"
True, these are exceptional cases. Nonetheless, with this sort of juvenile ingenuity, the future of America's business outlook certainly isn't hopeless — by a long means...

Mao's Wife Pleads For Violence End

TOKYO (AP) — Bowing to the moderate policies of Premier Chou En-lai, Mao Tse-tung's militant wife has called for an end to violence in her husband's nationwide purge.

The New China News Agency said Chou sat alongside as Mao's wife, Chiang Ching, told a congress of 10,000 young Red Guards in Peking Saturday that "the struggle must be conducted by reasoning, not by coercion or force."

Goaded by Chiang Ching and by purge chief Chen Po-ta, the Red Guards had humiliated, spat upon, derided and manhandled Mao's real and imagined opponents, including white-haired President Liu Shao-chi.

Franklin D. Roosevelt vetoed more bills than any other U.S. president, 631 in all, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Youth, 16, Loses Life in Crash, 4 Persons Hurt

PLATTSBURGH, N.Y. (AP)—James Carey 16, of nearby Morrisville, was killed Monday and four persons were injured, one seriously, in a three-car crash on a rural road near here.

State Police said the automobile Carey was driving and another car collided at the crest of a hill, slamming the Carey vehicle into a third car, parked beside the road.

The four occupants of the third car were injured. Three were treated at Physicians Hospital and released. The fourth, Carl E. Bouvea, 47, of Morrisville, was reported in satisfactory condition at the hospital with a chest injury.

Egg Rolling

Children Romp Again Monday on 1st Family Lawn

WASHINGTON (AP) — Children romped on the White House lawn Monday as the First Family continued the traditional Easter Monday egg-rolling.

Very few youngsters followed the ground rules for the egg-rolling contest. According to a tradition which dates back to the administration of President James Madison, children are to roll or throw the eggs—either hard boiled or uncooked—which they have brought from home.

House to provide the eggs, came empty handed. Sunshine appearing through a hazy sky and temperatures in the fifties encouraged the sizable attendance. The Johnsons have never appeared at an egg-rolling here. The last President to greet the Easter Monday crowds was Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Bridge Trump Lead Is Best Here

By Oswald and James Jacoby Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

"When in doubt lead trumps" is one of the really old bridge bromides. There is very little merit to it. A better one is, "When not in doubt, lead trumps."

North's two club bid was Stayman and asked South to show a four card major suit if he could. South obliged with a two spade bid and North made a slight overbid of five spades. With an absolute maximum no-trump, South went on to six in spite of his poor trump holding.

The contract is a good one. It spreads if diamonds break favorably, if both kings are finessable, or if West opens anything but a trump. On the other hand, West has an almost automatic trump lead. He is not in doubt at all. He sees that any other lead is likely to cost a trick and that a trump lead won't.

Even with the trump opening South is likely to make the hand. He will draw trumps with three leads, play dummy's king of diamonds and lead a second diamond. East will show out, whereupon South will play his ace and jack of diamonds.

West will be in with the queen and forced to lead a heart or club. A heart lead will be fatal.

Does West have an absolute guess? Not at all! East will have discarded three times. He will drop the two deuces first and either the three of hearts or

Dems Expect Goldberg in Senate Run

NEW YORK (AP) — Leading Democrats in Washington expect United Nations Ambassador Arthur Goldberg to resign this summer and run for the Senate from New York State, the New York Times said today.

Those party leaders who are pressing him to challenge Republican Sen. Jacob K. Javits, the Times said, believe he will leave his U.N. post before the next regular meeting of the General Assembly convenes in September.

Despite Goldberg's previous reluctance to comment on the matter, the Democrats described him as "genuinely interested," the Times said, despite the fact that he and Javits are old friends.

Goldberg said earlier this month, after a report that Brooklyn Democratic leader Assemblyman Stanley Steingut thought he would make a "great" senator, that comment would not be appropriate "while engaged in my present role."

State Democratic Chairman John Burns, asked for comment, said he had been away for two weeks and was unfamiliar with the details. "He's a great American, a great Democrat, as are a number of others," Burns said. "It's still quite early."

Yank Volunteer, 8 Laotians Die In Pathet Raid

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — A young American volunteer worker and eight Laotians were killed when Communist Pathet Lao troops raided an isolated village before dawn Saturday, the U.S. Embassy reported today.

The embassy said seven of the dead Laotians were soldiers of the royal Lao army. They were killed in a skirmish with the Pathet Lao after the Communists raided the village and shot the American and a Laotian volunteer worker.

The American was identified as Frederick Chevdeur, 20, of Orchard Lake, Mich. He came to Laos in April 1966 and was assigned six months ago to Pakhanva, an isolated village in Savannakhet Province, as a worker.

There were no reports of casualties among the Pathet Lao. The embassy and Laotian officials said 11 other royal Lao army soldiers were wounded in the skirmish.

Laotian officials estimate there are about three battalions of Pathet Lao troops in the area of southern Laos. They occasionally raid villages for rice but officials said that on Saturday they went directly to Chevdeur's house and shot him and his Laotian coworker, Chantai Omphan, 20. The Pathet Lao did not attack anyone else in the village.

Officials said the Pathet Lao encountered an army unit while escaping and a sharp skirmish followed.

British to Set Tanker Afire

LAND'S END, England (AP) — The British government decided to set the huge oil slick from the doomed American supertanker Torrey Canyon afire today in an attempt to diminish the creeping pollution of southwest England's finest holiday beaches.

Oil Slick Flowing

Ships and planes were warned to stay away from the waters in a radius of six miles from the Torrey Canyon off the southwest tip of Cornwall.

The Home Office said the attempt to fire the oil on the water would be made during the day.

The 61,263-ton tanker lay split in three parts on the Seven Stones Reef while chocolate-brown crude oil continued flowing from her ruptured tanks. More than half of the 35.8 million gallons aboard has poured into the sea.

Maritime experts predicted that the disaster, which threatens to pollute south Britain's holiday beaches for years to come, will force a drastic revision of British maritime law.

Coasts 120 Miles

The dark seum coated 120 miles of England's most prosperous vacation coast, and the government set up emergency oil-fighting committees as the ooze spread up the channel. But Navy Minister Maurice Foley, directing operations from Plymouth, said: "Given the extra oil now flowing off Cornwall, all the extra men and equipment in the world could not deal with this problem."

On shore, 1,500 troops and 1,000 firemen tried to remove oil advancing over the sands. Fire trucks hosed down the beaches after troops attacked the seum with scrapers and detergents.

Guatemala

Guatemala, which faces both the Caribbean Sea and the Pacific Ocean, has the largest population of any Central American republic. Approximately 70 per cent of its people are farmers producing coffee, bananas and the world's best chicle, which is a basic ingredient of chewing gum.

Ike Recalls His Days as Thespian

NEW YORK (AP) — As a teen-age Shakespearean comic actor, Dwight D. Eisenhower won the accolade "best amateur humorous character seen on the Abilene stage in this generation."

The former president recalls the reviewer's plaudits in his forthcoming book, "At Ease: Stories I Tell To Friends," excerpts of which are contained in a Saturday Evening Post article out today.

Mayor Reviews Projects Before Chamber Group

Mayor Raymond W. Garrahan reviewed major decisions to be made by the City of Kingston before a general membership breakfast of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce this morning at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

President George Svirsky presided and Dr. Jeremiah Sachs, chairman of Local Governmental Affairs Committee, was the program moderator.

Uptown Urban Renewal project, filling in of the Kingston Point lagoon, Cornell Fire Station, city-owned property, new street lighting and a new fire truck were topics singled out by the mayor for discussion.

The mayor also commented on the Friday night disturbances in the Uptown section of the city by the young people of the community. He said this was very serious problem for residents in the area and for the police. He asked for the cooperation of parents in stricter supervision of their children.

The mayor was opposed to the Uptown Urban Renewal plans as presently projected and asked the business interests to make their position known to the aldermen.

He said there was but slight change in the Kingston Point landfill and declared that six families in the area could kill the project by their complaints to the Army Corps of Engineers. He also saw no need for reopening of the Cornell Fire Station and the hiring of additional firemen for the station.

Rosendale Hearing

A public hearing will be held Wednesday evening at 7 p. m. at the Town of Rosendale town clerk's office, Main Street, Rosendale, on adoption of the New York State Building code. Residents of the town are requested to attend the meeting and express their views. The Town Planning Board has already voted in favor of adoption of the state code for the Town of Rosendale.

Ann Regenbogen Is Prospective Bride; August Wedding Plans Are Being Made

Mr. and Mrs. Myer Regenbogen of Ellenville, N. Y., have announced the engagement of their daughter Ann Rachel, to Irwin Bluestein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Bluestein, of East Rockaway, L. I., and formerly of Ellenville.

Miss Regenbogen, a graduate of Syracuse University, is a social worker in the Division of Foster Home Care of the New York City Department of Welfare. Her father is president of the First National Bank and Trust Company of Ellenville. She is also the granddaughter of Mrs. Joseph Y. Slutsky and the late Mr. Slutsky, founders of the Nevele Country Club in Ellenville.

Mr. Bluestein was graduated from Cornell University and is now a student at Rutgers University Law School.

A wedding in August is planned.

Bridal Shower For Beth Offermann; April Wedding Date

A surprise bridal shower was given in honor of Miss Beth Offermann, Saugerties, on March 15 at the home of Mrs. George Fisher of Saugerties. It was given by her bridal attendants, Miss Carol Rothrock, Miss Trinda Fisher of Saugerties, Miss Diana West of West Camp, and Miss Nancy Beckert of Lake Katrine. The room was decorated with yellow and white decorations. Miss Offermann will wed Allan G. Fisher on April 16. Many lovely gifts were received by Miss Offermann.

Attending the shower were Mrs. Donald Rothrock, Mrs. Earl Martin, Mrs. John Teetsel, Mrs. Joseph Notarnicola Sr., Mrs. Joseph Notarnicola Jr., Mrs. Harry Smith, Mrs. Marion Bankaskie, Mrs. George Fisher, mother of the groom, and the bride's mother, Mrs. John Offermann. Also attending were the Misses Diane Notarnicola, Jane Anderson, Trinda Fisher and Carol Rothrock.

Gifts were received also from Mrs. Estella Stokes, Mrs. Beatrice Malone, Mrs. Joseph Carmino, Mrs. Bill Beckert, and the Misses Nancy Beckert, Diana West, Sharon Perry, Sandra Marabell, Joan Goff, and Cheryl Goff.

Dean's List

Barbara Fugazzotto, a junior at Hope College, Holland, Mich., was named to the dean's list. She is a sociology major and the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Paul Fugazzotto of Robin Lane, Kingston.

Also named to the dean's list at Hope College are George Christian, a freshman, the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Christian of 194 Elmendorf Street, Kingston.

Doing The Right Thing

TACTFUL APPROACH

SOMETIMES BETTER

THAN BLUNT HONESTY

Dear Mrs. Post: I recently committed what my mother says was an unforgivable breach of etiquette. For years my husband and I kept up social relations with all my old friends, although he simply tolerated what he felt was usually an unbearable evening. The result was that little by little we drifted apart from my "friends before marriage" because we both felt that any social evening that could put such a strain on our own marriage simply was no longer worth it. Instead of continuing with polite excuses (as Mother says I should have) I finally told the truth. I explained to my friends that they really should not invite us any longer since my husband was finding one particular person getting increasingly on his nerves. Was my frankness truly such a breach of social behavior? I felt it had to be done.—Mrs. C. Dear Mrs. C.: Although I admire your honesty, and don't consider that you made an unforgivable breach of etiquette, I feel that your mother's approach would have been more tactful. If you had continued to make polite excuses time after time, surely your friends would have caught on eventually, without risking an embarrassing scene and hurt feelings.

Candlesticks on the Table
Dear Mrs. Post: I understand it is poor taste to leave candles and holders on the table when not having dinner. Is this correct?—Mrs. Holm.

Dear Mrs. Holm: I know of no such rule — my silver crystal candlesticks frequently remain on my dining room table between meals.

Showers Generally Given Before Wedding
Dear Mrs. Post: I would like to know if it is proper to give a shower for a girl after she is married? I always thought the shower was for the bride-to-be. This was a church wedding.—Curious.

Dear Curious: If it had been an elopement, with no advance notice, it would be permissible for a friend to give a shower after the wedding. But since it was a church wedding, presumably announced in advance, any showers should have been held before.

So your planning to give a shower. A new booklet by Elizabeth L. Post tells you everything you need to know — for a bridal shower, a welcome party for a new neighbor, the local minister or anyone else. To get a copy, send twenty-five cents in coin to cover booklet and shipping expenses, to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of The Freeman.

New York City Ballet Will Present Two World Premiers During Spring Season

The New York City Ballet, which opens its 44th Manhattan season of six weeks tonight at the New York State Theatre, Lincoln Center, will present two world premieres of George Balanchine works during the spring engagement. "The Jewels," a three-act ballet will have its first performance on Thursday evening, April 13th. Each act of the ballet has music by a different composer. The "Emeralds" section will be danced to incidental music composed by Faure for the stage works "Pelleas and Melisande" and "Shylock." The "Rubies" will dance to Igor Stravinsky's "Capriccio for Piano and Orchestra." The final movement, "Diamonds," will use Tchaikovsky's "Third Symphony" (the second through the fifth movements). Almost all the principal dancers, soloists and corps of the New York City Ballet will appear. Peter Harvey has designed the scenery and Karinska the costumes.

"Three Waltzes" to Chabrier's score, "Trois Valses Romantiques," will premiere Thursday evening, April 6th. Melissa Hayden will dance the principal role. Karinska has fashioned the costumes.

"Les Illuminations" will be revived and danced for the first time since 1962 on Friday evening, April 7th. Initially presented by the New York City Ballet in 1950, "Illuminations" was the first production by a foreign choreographer to be commissioned by the New York City Ballet. Frederick Ashton arranged the choreography to music by Benjamin Britten, set to poems of Arthur Rimbaud. Scenery and

Minnewaska Center Of Music and Arts Offered This Summer

From July 2 to Aug. 28 this year, the large green lawn in front of the famous Cliff House overlooking beautiful Lake Minnewaska will be the site of the new Minnewaska Center of Music and Arts. A tent, large enough to seat 1,500 people will be erected, and additional parking space will be provided.

An eight-week Concert Series, open to the public, will feature internationally known soloists and conductors. The concerts will include chamber music Friday evenings, symphony-opera Saturday evenings, and band concerts Sunday afternoons.

In connection with this, the newly incorporated Mid-Atlantic Music Camp has reserved the entire facilities of the Cliff House from July 2 to Aug. 28. Before and after this time, the hotel will be used for regular guests and conferences as usual. The Wildmere House, accommodating over three hundred guests, is now open the year round, offering complete resort facilities summer and winter.

William A. Scheneman of the U.S. Marine Band (retired) will be Executive Director of the Minnewaska Center of Music and Arts and the Music Camp. He is from Reading, Pa., and brings with him a wealth of musical experience in performance as well as administration, including such dazzling spectacles as the presentation of the U.S. Marine Band at the Olympic Games in Germany and Squaw Valley.

Other members of the Executive Staff include Capt. Dale Harpham, Public Relations Director, Wes Fisher, Business Manager, Les Saunders, Coordinator of Ensembles, Ray Hudson, Recreation Director, and the following Musical Directors: Louis Vyrner, Orchestra; Donald R. Hunsberger, Band and Wind Ensembles; Dr. Russell P. Getz, Choral, and Dr. Mary Bainbridge Vyrner, Keyboard. The Curtis String Quartet and the Ithaca Woodwind Quintet will be in residence.

The founders and directors of the Mid-Atlantic Music Camp promise this to be one of the finest in terms of program, instruction, facilities, and surroundings. An experience of the highest cultural level will be provided by the Minnewaska Center of Music and Arts Concert series in which a number of students will participate while all will enjoy the association with some of the world's outstanding instrumental and vocal soloists.

BOB-O and BOBBINO

'Concert of Comedy' Will Delight Woodstock Children Wednesday, March 29

Wednesday will be comedy day for children in Woodstock at the Performing Arts' Little Theatre Off The Green.

Clowns Bob-O and Bobbino will present three full performances of their Concert of Comedy at 10 a. m. and 2 and 4 p. m. featuring some of the acts which they have presented throughout the U.S. and Canada on their circus tours and some new ones to which they have perfected lately at their home in Kingston between tours and assembly appearances at Elementary Schools throughout the State.

Under the sponsorship of Performing Arts of Woodstock, the clowns have been scheduled for this appearance as a result of demand created when they performed at last spring's Bizarre Bazaar.

Bob-O and Bobbino present the type of clowning popular in the one-ring circuses of Europe and seen in this country on television programs filmed there. In Europe the clowns are featured performers who present complete comedy acts which run much longer than those of their American counterparts.

The acts consist of adventures taken from the performances of other performers from ballet to wild west show sharpshooters and presented as only two performers can present them who have worked so closely together over a period of years.

Many of our acts began as short bits only a few minutes long and sort of grew as we added things to them while we were performing," Bob-O notes. "We have worked together in these characters so long that we naturally react as the character would when one or the other of us adds something new in the middle of a performance."

Each performance Wednesday is scheduled for one hour—unless Bob-O or Bobbino adds something new.

Boston Symphony Orchestra Programs Are Announced for Eight-Week Festival

The Boston Symphony Orchestra's eight week Berkshire Festival opens on Friday evening, June 30 at the Orchestra's summer home, Tanglewood (Lenox, Massachusetts) with a concert conducted by Music Director Erich Leinsdorf. Weekend concerts by the Boston Symphony Orchestra will be given on Fridays at 9 p. m., Saturdays at 8 p. m., and Sunday afternoons at 2:30 p. m. Prior to each of the Friday programs, the Orchestra will offer Weekend Preludes for those who arrive at Tanglewood early in the evening. The Preludes begin at 7 p. m. and many of the weekend soloists will perform at these programs which are provided at no extra cost to those holding tickets to the Friday evening Orchestra concert.

The second and third weeks of this summer's Festival will be performed by a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony Orchestra musicians with music by Bach, Mozart, and Vivaldi scheduled for performance. As he has each summer since he announced the plan in 1963, Mr. Leinsdorf will continue the series of Mozart piano concertos. Guest conductors Jorge Mester (July 7) and Antonio Janigro (July 14) will each conduct one program during the chamber orchestra weeks.

Other guest conductors who will appear at Tanglewood this summer are Rafael Kubelik (July 28 and 29); Seiji Ozawa (July 22); Gunther Schuller (August 18); and William Steinberg (August 4 and 12).

On July 15 Mr. Leinsdorf will conduct Bach's B minor Mass and on August 5 the Music Director will conduct a concert performance of the original 1805 version of Beethoven's only opera, "Fidelio". In the closing weekend of the Tanglewood season Mr. Leinsdorf will conduct Verdi's Requiem on August 19 and an all-Wagner program August 20.

Two benefit events are scheduled for the summer at Tanglewood. Arthur Fiedler will conduct the Boston Pops Orchestra on August 8 for the Boston Symphony Pension Fund, and Tanglewood-on-Parade which benefits the Berkshire Music Center will be held on August 17.

Six programs of chamber music will be given on Tuesday evenings.

LILY HORWOOD African Mission Speaker Slated Here Wednesday

How to be three teachers at once in 100 degree will be discussed by Miss Lily Horwood of Africa when she speaks Wednesday, 7:30 p. m. at the Free Methodist Church, Elmendorf Tract, Hurley.

Miss Horwood has performed a trifold teaching task during her 20 years as a Free Methodist missionary in Mozambique's tropical climate. During her past term Miss Horwood taught sewing to the women, plus classes in the Evangelists' School where the pastors and leaders of the Mozambique church are trained. In addition she directed a youth Bible school and supervised the girls' dormitory.

The Mozambique mission work is located in one of the more primitive areas of Africa where animism, or spirit worship, is still the predominant religion and many adults are illiterate. In spite of such handicaps, the African church leaders are taking an ever increasing load of responsibility.

During the past year the Mozambique church achieved full conference status. National leaders and missionaries have a new sense of partnership. Miss Horwood teamed with two African leaders in conducting youth institutes throughout the conference.

Another accomplishment of Miss Horwood's past term is establishing a children's Sunday school at Inhamachato Station, her home. More than 150 children attend. Students from the Evangelists' School teach and gain valuable experience in children's work. Previously, every one had met in one Sunday school class geared to adult interests.

Miss Horwood will accompany her presentation with slides and tape recordings.

Expo '67 Refutes Reports of Montreal Room Shortage; Price Controls Set Up

MONTREAL, (Expo 67) — Accommodations are still available in Montreal and area hotels even for the peak attendance period of Expo 67 — June 15 to September 15 — Robert F. Shaw, the world exhibition's deputy commissioner general said today.

Mr. Shaw said that reports appearing in the press had caused unnecessary alarm and confusion among the public.

"This is the accommodation situation at this moment," he said. "There is still space available in:

"Hotels and motels beyond a 15-mile radius of downtown Montreal during all periods of the exhibition, and in the hotels in the city prior to June 15 and after September 15.

"There is space in temporary motels for the period of the entire exhibition. There is also accommodation at all times in efficiency apartments and private homes within the city; in camping areas and trailer parks on the periphery of the city."

Mr. Shaw said that previous exhibitions in New York, Seattle and Brussels had suffered from rumors that there would not be sufficient accommodation.

"These reports proved to be unfounded and, in fact, there were empty hotel rooms in midtown Montreal in New York, Brussels and Seattle," he said.

Levy Price Controls

"At Expo 67, we decided to be better prepared. For the first time in the history of exhibitions, we established a large-scale reservations system to assist our visitors. The Province of Quebec went even further by setting up price controls to prevent overcharging of visitors seeking accommodation in Montreal and area during Expo 67."

Mr. Shaw listed the following as the problem areas of Logexpo, Expo 67's reservations bureau which already has made reservations for 2,500,000 rooms:

Although Logexpo was established more than 2½ years ago, and advertised extensively, the first trickle of requests for accommodation did not start until nine months ago. This trickle has grown to a flood of 30,000 letters per week.

As a result of this flood of mail Logexpo has been as much as four weeks behind in processing its mail. This backlog, however, is being cleared away. There are 100 employees, working two shifts, seven days a week.

Welcome Wagon Club

Robert Van Kleeck, WGHQ radio commentator, addressed the regular meeting of the Welcome Wagon Club of Kingston on Tuesday, March 21, at the YWCA.

The club members, many of whom are new arrivals in the community, enjoyed his sketch of Kingston's history. Mr. Van Kleeck also reminisced about his boyhood in Kingston, and he delighted his audience with legends and anecdotes about early settlers.

During the business meeting Mrs. Patrick Bottino announced the success of the Welcome Wagon Club's recent bake sale. Proceeds will be used for the club's service projects. Mrs. Rose Wasserman introduced new members to the club. Special interest group activities were discussed, including service at the Infirmary, bowling, sewing, and potluck suppers. Hostesses for the social which concluded the evening were Mrs. Edna Nivers and Mrs. Florence Yrotsky.

The next Welcome Wagon Club meeting will be held at the YWCA at 8 p. m. on April 18. Harry Thayer WGHQ president will be guest speaker. Anyone who has received a Welcome Wagon call is invited to attend the meetings.

France-Greth Nuptials

Mrs. Marion France of 13 South Road Mt. Marion Park announces the marriage of her daughter, Ruth to Michael Greth, son of Mrs. Mary Greth of Shultis Corners.

The wedding took place on March 18 at the Mt. Marion Church with Rev. John Needham officiating. The attendants were Mrs. Rita Schaefer and Donald E. Baker. A small wedding supper was held at Elmer's Inn.

Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Denny Whalen, Mary Greth, Earl France, Jr., Marion France, Rita Schaefer, Donald E. Baker Ruth and Michael Greth.

Katsbaan Ladies' Aid Society

A turkey supper is being planned for Saturday, April 8 by the Katsbaan Ladies Aid in the Katsbaan church hall. Servings will be at 5, 6 and 7 p. m.

Taking reservations are Mrs. William Fiero and Mrs. Fred Elveleit.

Logexpo is receiving assistance from the Canadian Government Travel Bureau, temporary help, and from Expo personnel from other department's working extra shifts. This backlog is expected to be eliminated by April 1.

Due to heavy demand, most commercial establishments are not giving commissions to travel agents this summer.

This situation has prompted some travel agents to direct their clients elsewhere. Many travel agents are constantly booking accommodations through Logexpo. For instance, yesterday (March 22), Logexpo booked 96 rooms in a single establishment within three miles of the exhibition site.

Marginal operators have attempted to book thousands of rooms without deposit. When they are unable to do so, they publicly blame Logexpo. The outstanding instance was a travel agent who sent a check for $150 as a deposit against a request for 1,000 rooms. This is obviously impossible. Another motel had 1,900 requests for rooms but only 240 of these requests carried deposits.

There have been some complaints of overcharging and without a doubt some operators have attempted to overcharge. But this practice certainly cannot succeed. Anyone who believes that he is being overcharged should write or telephone the Quebec Lodging Service for Expo 67, P. O. Box 515, Place d'Armes, Montreal. The telephone number is (514) 288-2192.

Personal

Lydia Newcombe, a senior at Kingston High School plans to attend Oberlin College in September. Miss Newcombe is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Newcombe of Manor Lake, Kingston.

Frank Fabiano, 131 Prospect Street, Kingston, has been pledged by Alpha Phi Omega, a service fraternity at Murray State University. Fabiano is a junior majoring in psychology and minoring in biology and sociology. He is one of 10 Alpha Phi Omega pledges for the spring semester.

Club Notices

Civil Air Patrol

Kingston Composite Squadron, Civil Air Patrol, will hold its regular meeting Wednesday, March 29 at 7 p. m. in the New York State Armory on Manor Avenue. All personnel are requested to attend.

Gem Society

A regular meeting of the Gem Society has been called for Tuesday, April 4 in the Clinton Avenue Church at 8 p. m. A miscellaneous sale will be held after the meeting. Hostesses will be Loretta Giles, Goldi Lansperg, Ella Van Kleeck and Alma Becker.

Plattekill Church Members Vote for $32,000 Building

Members of the Plattekill Reformed Church of Mt. Marion voted to approve a low bid of $32,000 for the construction of a new Christian Education building and fellowship hall at a special meeting March 23.

The low bid was submitted by the Mt. Marion Construction Company of Mt. Marion. At the same meeting members of the congregation voted to approve a 15-year mortgage for $24,000.

The Rev. John Needham, pastor, said the building will be a two-story colonial structure of 5,400 square feet. It will be electrically heated and house a large, fully equipped nursery, 10 classrooms, a study, rest rooms, a large kitchen, a large multiple-use room and a meeting and dining hall to accommodate 160 persons at the tables.

Ground breaking ceremonies are scheduled for Sunday at 12:15 p. m., weather permitting.

Denies Welfare Aim Under SS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Critics of President Johnson's proposed massive overhaul of the Social Security System claim he wants to turn it into a welfare program.

The administration discounts any such aim, but it's certain that questions raised by witnesses before the House Ways and Means Committee will concern the panel in closed session next week as it works over the legislation.

Both parties favor some increase in benefits, but liberal Democrats are eyeing a higher level than many conservatives of both parties. The legislation is complex and open to negotiation on scores of points.

Doubts have been voiced in connection with:

—The cost of the proposed 20 per cent average increase in benefits and whether such an outlay can be financed by the traditional "self-supporting" payroll tax.

World's worst mine disaster was that at the Honkeiko Colliery in Manchuria, in 1942, which killed 1,549 workers.

Adding Luster to an already spectacular geodesic dome at the United States pavilion at Montreal's Expo 67 will be hostesses such as these two young ladies. Wearing light summery uniforms that border on "mini," they pose against a backdrop of the dome created by American philosopher-scientist Buckminster Fuller.

Yvette Mimieux is charmed by a little chimp in this scene from Walt Disney's "Monkeys, Go Home!" The film will be sponsored by the St. Joseph's Parents Association on Wednesday, March 29 at 2 p. m. in the Kingston Community Theatre. Audiences Can Preview New TV Series Tonight

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Television audiences can try something new tonight, a two-hour preview of a series for next season.

The subject is called "Ironside," and it stars Raymond Burr as the crippled detective who tracks down the sniper whose bullet paralyzed him. The show is a "world premiere" attraction on NBC's "Tuesday Night at the Movies."

Next season "Ironside" starring Raymond Burr will appear on NBC in one-hour versions at 8:30 Thursday night—"My old Perry Mason" time slot," he points out.

It's not easy to catch up with Burr, who possesses some of the elusive qualities of his opponents in television. But he was located at Universal studio during the final day of shooting on "Crisis Cross," a feature film intended for the theater screens first and TV later.

"Leaving for Vietnam tomorrow," he reported, "I'll be spending my birthday there for the fifth time (he'll be 50 May 21). I've been in Vietnam about 10 times in all, but I usually visit there in May, between the television seasons."

The hefty actor spends his time in talks with the GIs at hospitals and troop installations since he is not a song-and-dance man. On this trip he said he also would tour other parts of the Orient at the request of the government, advising on the use of educational television.

He will return in late May to begin his second television series, for which tonight's movie served as a pilot. "Ironside"—that's the detective's name—was snapped up by the Madison Avenue buyers.

During his nine-year tenure as the ever-victorious Perry Mason, Burr faced what his fellow actors concede was the toughest assignment in television. He was the focal figure of an hour-long show, one that required the memorizing of reams of courtroom dialogue for every show. The role made him rich, but it also put him in the hospital from time to time.

"Once again I'm playing a title role," he sighed. But at least, he'll play the role sitting down.

"But the main thing I like about the new series is that it will give me more freedom. The plots won't be limited to murder. I will be able to investigate any case that a police detective might get involved in."

Audiences Can Preview New TV Series Tonight

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Television audiences can try something new tonight, a two-hour preview of a series for next season.

The subject is called "Ironside," and it stars Raymond Burr as the crippled detective who tracks down the sniper whose bullet paralyzed him. The show is a "world premiere" attraction on NBC's "Tuesday Night at the Movies."

Next season "Ironside" starring Raymond Burr will appear on NBC in one-hour versions at 8:30 Thursday night—"My old Perry Mason" time slot," he points out.

Ross Hunter, Producer With Knack for Hits

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — "You have to make your own trip to the moon," said Ross Hunter. "There are no free rides."

Hunter, the youthful-looking former high school English teacher who now, as one of Hollywood's most successful producers, is becoming known as "the man with the box office touch."

Of the 36 films he has made since 1952 only two were financial duds, which he feels is something of a record.

Made $167 Million

"I have made a profit of $167 million for the studio," he remarked.

"Why? Because I don't make pictures for myself. I make them for the public. And what they want is to be entertained."

"Escape is a healthy word. And people are looking for a clean look in entertainment."

"European producers feel they have to give a slice of life. We feel that people get that slice of life in their own homes."

"We're on the upbeat now in Hollywood. European producers are on the downbeat. I feel that if you subject people to a neurotic film about despair, they go back to their homes and watch television, dull as that may be."

Hunter's latest bonanza is "Thoroughly Modern Millie," a madcap musical romp through the 1920s starring Julie Andrews, James Fox, Mary Tyler Moore, Carol Channing, John Gavin and Beatrice Lillie.

His next opus is "The Public Eye," which Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton will get a million dollars each to star in.

Used to Be Actor

Ross used to be an actor himself. After a spell of teaching English in Cleveland, he put in a hitch in the Army then took a film test and scored high.

He acted in 19 pictures — remember "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi" and "Louisiana Hayride"? — and pushed his income up to $1,000 a week. His career was interrupted by an illness that sidelined him for a full year.

When he recovered nobody seemed to remember him. Unable to find work as an actor, he returned to teaching at $37.50 a week, spending his evenings studying producing.

"It was the best thing that could have happened to me," he recalled without bitterness. "I don't miss acting, and I don't think the public misses my acting either. I wouldn't be an actor again for anything in the world."

In a few years, as producer, Hunter climbed quickly back up the Hollywood ladder. His films include such hits as "Magnificent Obsession," "Imitation of Life," "Tammy Tell Me True," "Flower Drum Song," and "Pillow Talk."

Among the stars he helped launch or bring to new peaks of popularity are Rock Hudson, Sandra Dee, Natalie Wood, Doris Day, Lana Turner, Hayley Mills, and Debbie Reynolds.

He is well aware that he's riding an unusual success wave, but says that if he should run into a series of flops he still has a resource available.

"I can always go back to teaching," he said cheerfully.

Leningrad Pure Treat on Tube

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A favorite technique used in television when the subject is vast, complicated or dull — is to reduce the whole thing to a microcosm.

The war in Vietnam? Tell the story in terms of one soldier. Heart surgery? Build the program about one case.

Monday night NBC served up a short course in Russian history in terms of one beautiful, historic city — Leningrad. The program went far to explain the Russian character and recall the long period when the people were subjugated and exploited by their rulers. It was illustrated by stunning film of the palaces, churches and museums of the former imperial capital started 250 years ago on the whim of a czar and built largely by serf labor.

As the camera rambled over the magnificent buildings, moved into closeups of golden altars or peered down canals, the narration told of court intrigue, assassination and unconcern for the people's welfare.

There was Peter the Great, imaginative enough to dream of the city St. Petersburg, but cruel enough to have his son arrested and convicted of treason. There was Elizabeth, the vain and fun-loving czarina who built a pleasure palace and loved masquerade parties. And Catherine I, the German princess who had her weak Russian husband murdered, but whose taste in art and architecture resulted in the great Hermitage Museum — and Paul I, the son she loathed, who was strangled by his own officers.

By the time the narrator reached Nicholas II, last of the Romanoffs, the background of the 1917 Bolshevik revolution had been amply explored. The program was a treat.

A one-character drama, "The Human Voice," starring Ingrid Bergman will be the ABC "Stage 67" program May 4, producer Hubbell Robinson said Monday.

Next season, however, the series will have no regular spot in the schedule. Robinson said he is negotiating for various properties, but could not say whether there would be 8 or 18 shows next season.

ABC now plans to lace its Sunday and Wednesday night movie reruns next season with occasional taped dramatic shows.

On April 20, ABC plans to shift "That Girl," Mario Thomas' comedy series, into a Thursday night spot following "Bewitched" where it will remain through next season. "Love on a Rooftop" which is not renewed, will follow it through summer reruns.

Recommended tonight: "Ironside," NBC, 9-11 EST, a made-for-TV feature which sets the scene for next season's new NBC program starring Raymond Burr as a crippled police officer who solves crimes from his wheelchair.

CANNED CLOTHES are here, or at least in Germany. Just stock up and never again can the little frau say she has nothing to wear. Done in artificial fabric, they come in two basic designs, packaged in containers decoratively wrapped in the fabric.

Three New Comb Ideas

Hair styles have shaped up with three new comb ideas. To revive tired sets, a comb with rakeslitter at one end gives a quick pick-me-up with a flick of the wrist. For short hair that has grown too long, a shaper comb combines razor-blade action at one end and comb at the other. The skip-tooth comb is especially made for wigs. Teeth cut out, it does not pull the wig, therefore, does not pull the hair out.

Hints from Heloise

by Heloise Cruse

Dear Heloise:

After reading your column and treating many women patients, I would like to point out a few verses in The Bible which sound like your thesis:

Namely: St. Luke, chapter 10, verses 38 through 42.

It is the Biblical story of Mary and Martha.

Basically it is the story of the housewife Martha, who was so encumbered by her household chores (and self-pity for not having help) that she missed the true pleasure of Christ's visit; while her open, simple and loving sister, Mary, chose to sit at His feet and enjoy a visit which could never be taken away from her.

Medical Doctor

And after having read this six times, I think it would behoove each of you to open your Bibles and read it three or four times. And read it to your husbands, too.

Our blessings upon this Doctor who took the time to write.

Heloise

Dear Heloise: When any member of our family is ill, and must eat breakfast in bed, I cut his toast into small squares, leaving it in the shape of the slice, and then put his egg on top of it.

It is much easier for an invalid to handle, since there is no cutting to do — and no slice of toast sliding into bed with them!

Hazel Crosby

Dear Heloise:

My thanks to the teen-ager who wrote about putting household cleanser on the bottom of white socks, scrubbing them with a brush (after soaking them in water), then washing as usual. It sure works.

Do you know that this same thing works on soiled collars and cuffs? No more dark lines on family's white shirts. I just rub the cleanser in with my fingers, and stick the shirts in the washing machine.

Marie McClure

Some cleansers contain bleach. I do not recommend that you use bleach on colored clothes or anything not compatible with.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise: How is it that a husband who can fit a '58 car engine into a '39 hot rod, can't pin a diaper on one teeny-weeny, wriggling baby?

Gloria

Dear Heloise:

We put a seat belt in the middle of the front seat of our car. Baby can be strapped to the baby carrier or car seat, then tucked in.

This is a wonderful device.

Mrs. G. T. Alah

Dear Heloise:

To shorten my growing son's new cuffed pants, I make a fold underneath the cuff, hand baste it around, and tack it on the outside where the cuff is tacked.

When the trousers need lengthening, I just snip the thread off the fold, and the trousers are lengthened, with the cuff already in place.

Believe me, it beats the old method of taking out the cuff, shortening the pants, and then putting the cuff back in.

Working Mother

Dear Heloise:

I save the last small bits of facial soap, and dry them

Dad of Seven Crushed to Death On Job Upstate

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP)—A 49-year-old father of seven was crushed fatally Monday in an accident at the Hooker Chemical Corp.'s main plant in Niagara Falls.

Hambazum Avojan of Niagara Falls was operating a forklift truck when the vehicle toppled from a loading dock and pinned him against the side of the dock, a company spokesman said.

Avojan's address was 2440 Cudaback Ave. The plant is on Buffalo Avenue.

Studied the Heavens

From the White House rooftop at night, 11-year-old Jesse Grant, an amateur astronomer, studied the heavens through a gift telescope.

Thoroughly. I then grate them on my kitchen grater; fill a small pill vial with this soap, and keep it in my purse.

If I am in a rest room where there is no soap, I always have some in my purse.

Seems like I always pick a restroom that has run out of soap.

Dear Abby . . .

Young Man Won't 'Communicate'

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I just LOVE to write letters to 'ellows. I don't care if I know them or not, as long as they are a friend of mine.

My problem is, I have lived around the corner from this boy all my life. I am 23 and so is he. We never played together as children because we went to different schools. Sure, we'd see each other, but never a word was spoken.

Two summers ago, I said to myself, "This is silly!" So when I saw him, I said, "Hi, Tony, where are you going?"

He didn't answer me. He just smiled and kept going.

The next time I saw him, about a year later, I said, "Hi, Tony, where are you going NOW?" He didn't answer me, but smiled and went on. He is now in the service. Should I ask his mother for his address and write to him?

LOVES TO WRITE

DEAR ABBY: If you LOVE to write letters — go ahead and write. He might communicate better by mail. But don't be surprised if he doesn't. A young man who won't talk, probably won't write either.

DEAR ABBY: If I don't get this off my chest I'll burst. I have two sons. There are none better. They are both married and have lovely families.

It hurts me to go into their homes and not see even one photograph of Dad and me in sight.

We have gone to the trouble and expense of taking pictures, having them enlarged and framed, but they must be stored away in a closet somewhere.

We have our home full of pictures of our sons, their wives, and children. Am I wrong to feel hurt? Set me straight.

DEAR HURT: No. Apparently your sons and their wives are not aware of your feelings.

DEAR ABBY: I load and unload freight and baggage for a major air line. We handle dogs and cats that are "kenneled" for transportation.

Most of these animals have never experienced anything like this before, and they are petrified from the noise of the screaming jets, and from so much jostling around. Some animals try to chew thru the kennel, and they get very broken teeth and bleeding mouths. Some even get loose.

A veterinarian has informed me that tranquilizer pills are available (thru any vet) which, if given to the animal before the trip, will keep him calm and comfortable. I have seen so many frightened and hysterical animals in my work, it breaks my heart. If you love animals as I do, you'll print this.

Kenmore Man Crash Victim, Family of 6 Hurt

CORFU, N. Y. (AP)—Two automobiles collided along Route 33 near this Genesee County village Monday night, claiming the life of a man and injuring a family of six, two seriously.

Killed was Edward A. Grabowski, 31, of the Buffalo suburb of Kenmore. He was alone in his car, State Police said.

Injured were Mr. and Mrs. Imre Nagy and their four children. The family lives in Depew, also a Buffalo suburb.

Rita Nagy, 2, and her 4-year-old brother, Peter, suffered head injuries and were taken to Rochester General Hospital. They were placed on the danger list in poor condition.

Nagy, his wife Magdalena and the other children, Adrianna, 9, and Howard, 8, were admitted to St. Jerome Hospital, Batavia, with facial injuries. The father also suffered leg injuries, troopers said.

Grabowski's address was 327 Westgate Rd. The Nagy home is at 70 Green Terr.

New York State Convention to Hear Warren at First Session

Both LBJ, Humphrey Decline Invites for Opening Day Talks

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Added glitter for the opening of the State Constitutional Convention was assured today with the addition of Chief Justice Earl Warren as a speaker at the initial session.

The nation's top jurist telephoned his acceptance to the convention's president-designate, Anthony J. Travia, Monday, evening, a busy round of activities in preparation for the session that begins next Tuesday.

Others on Agenda

President Johnson and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey also had been invited to address the opening meeting but both declined because of other commitments. Humphrey, sources said, might speak at a later meeting.

In addition to Warren, former governor of California and one of the country's top experts on constitutional law, U.S. senators Jacob K. Javits and Robert F. Kennedy, also have agreed to deliver addresses to the delegates at the first session.

Gov. Rockefeller also will speak shortly after the 186 delegates go through the formality of electing Assembly Speaker Travia as president of the convention.

The convention's prospects drew the attention of another U.S. Supreme Court judge Monday as Justice Tom C. Clark issued a strong call for modernization of the state's judicial system.

His Present System

Clark issued the appeal in an extemporaneous speech at a Buffalo meeting of the Committee for Modern Courts. Of the nation's three most populous states—New York, California and Illinois—only New York has not updated its court system, he said.

The present system, Clark said, has no central budgeting, financing or administration. The selection of judges by gubernatorial and mayoral appointments as well as elections creates "three different loyalties."

"If one method is good, why not use it altogether?" he asked. Some of the state's tribunals now are "islands unto themselves," he said, singling out the surrogate courts, family courts and peace justices.

Clark described the state's judicial system as a "hodge-podge," adding:

"It's no wonder the people have a disrespect for the law and apathy for the judicial system."

Ball to Cop Festivities

The convention's opening day's festivities will close with an Convention Ball to which all of the delegates have been invited.

Travia, a 56-year-old Brooklyn lawyer and top Democrat in the Legislature, is assured of the presidency of the convention.

The 99 Democrat and three Liberal delegates selected him as their choice at a meeting several weeks ago.

Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges, the Legislature's ranking Republican, was chosen as minority leader of the convention by the 84 Republican delegates.

Javits, who lost in a bid for a delegate-at-large seat as a Republican-Liberal, is expected to press for lowering the voting age from 21 to 18.

In that cause he is expected to be joined by Democrat Kennedy.

Po'keepsie Man Killed in Mass., Companion Hurt

PITTSFIELD, Mass. (AP)—A Poughkeepsie, N.Y., man was killed and another was injured seriously Monday night when their utility truck and an automobile collided on Route 20 east of the New York-Massachusetts line.

Daniel Lyon, 39, was killed in the crash. His companion, Richard Robard, 23, was taken to St. Luke's Hospital here where he underwent extensive surgery. Lyon's address was 180 Madison St.

Still Going Strong

MANCHESTER, Mo. (AP)—Dr. William Wallace Cherry said on his 100th birthday that "the love of two fine women and a sense of humor" helped him reach the century mark. His first wife died in 1931. His present wife of 28 years said the Manchester dentist still likes the ladies, especially nurses. "He tries to kiss them all," she said.

Norway Refuses To Further Ease Abortion Laws

By ERIK A. WOLD

OSLO, Norway. (AP)—The

Norwegian government has turned down a request by a woman member of Parliament for an abortion law giving women the right to decide by themselves to interrupt pregnancy.

"Further liberalization of abortion in this country is unjustifiable," Eirik Aarvik, minister of social affairs, told Parliament in reply to Mrs. Aase Lionaes of the opposition Labor party.

"This would mean to give individuals the right to decide whether another human being should live or not. It would be an obvious break of all those ethical and juridical principles our lawmakers is based upon."

Norway opened the way for legal abortions in 1964. But pregnant women must apply to the director of the state medical services.

Permission is granted on medical or social grounds and the woman's mental as well as physical health may be considered. A woman with numerous children and an alcoholic husband, for instance, would be allowed an abortion.

In a television debate, Mrs. Lionaes said the government grants legal abortions to about 2,000 women a year and turns down the applications of more than 2,000 others.

She said an estimated 7,000 women have criminal abortions. Some experts who appeared on the program put the number as high as 10,000.

Upstate Navy Man Killed in Japan

TOKYO (AP)—Leon R. Rosage, a 24-year-old Navy aviation mechanic from DeWittville in extreme western New York State, was among four sailors killed in an automobile accident Sunday.

U.S. Navy spokesman said the car in which they were riding hit a pile of gravel and overturned near the Atsugi Naval Air Station.

French to Cite American Comic Strip Writers

PARIS (AP)—American comic strips and their creators are going to get a red-carpet welcome to Paris, with Culture Minister Andre Malraux among the welcomers.

They will be the center of an international exposition April 17-June 12, tracing the evolution of "figurative drawings from carved Trojan columns to your favorite character in the funnies."

Milton Caniff, Jerry Robinson, Mel Lazarus, Burne Hogarth and Alfred Andriola are among artists who will attend the opening.

The exposition will be held in the Museum des Arts Decoratifs, near the Louvre.

The exposition will stress the American comic strip's appeal to adults, plus the fact that comics are read daily by almost a quarter of the world's population.

"This exposition forms part of an 18-month campaign our society has conducted to inform the French public on the characteristics of American comic strips," said Claude Millerni, director of the Society of Research in Illustrated Literature.

"The child-oriented nature of French comics is classic and has generally not changed in 30 to 40 years."

"U.S. strips are basically serious and rely largely on sociological or topical subjects. I think, however, that French thinking in comic strips is readjusting at the present."

Penn Yan Gets Grant

WASHINGTON (AP)—The village of Penn Yan in west-central New York State is the recipient of a $758,030 federal grant for use in the 7.19-acre "Jacob's Brook" urban renewal project.

The Housing and Urban Development Department also awarded Monday a $210,000 grant to the village of Cobleskill, southeast of Schenectady, to expand its water supply.

Workshops Set On Area History; Deadline Friday

The second annual regional history workshop sponsored jointly by social science division of Ulster County Community College and the Ulster County Historical Society will start five Wednesday sessions April 5.

Deadline for registration is this Friday. Those interested may contact Professor Harry Matzen at the college prior to that time.

Sessions will trace area history from Civil War days through a look into Kingston in the 1970's. Harry Rigby Jr., city historian will speak at the first session April 5 at Old Dutch Church on the Impact of the Civil War on Ulster County.

Other speakers and sites will be as follows:

Post Civil War Times
April 12, Post Civil War Industrialization and Exploitation of Natural Resources, Kenneth Hasbrouck, Ulster County Historian at Deyo Hall, New Paltz Reformed Church.

April 19, John Vanderlyn and Kingston, Dr. Salvatore Mondello, noted Vanderlyn researcher, at the Ulster County Courthouse, Kingston.

Panel Participants

Panel discussion on Kingston in the 1970's at Kingston High School Auditorium May 3. Professor Matzen will be moderator. Panel participants are the Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool, Dr. Richard J. Messina, Mrs. Vincent G. Connelly, Dr. W. Wendell Hoover, Rigby and W. Dale Svartzmiller.

The final session will be held May 10 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. at Beaver House, headquarters of the historical society in Marbletown. A tea will be served by women of the society and certificates will be presented to those completing the course.

Quiz Man in Death

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Police questioned Curtis Smith, 43, of Buffalo, N.Y., today in the death of Margie Sims, 40, also of Buffalo, who was shot to death Monday outside a downtown tavern.

The woman was killed by a bullet fired from a .22-caliber pistol, police said.

Campus Living, Too

SANTEE, N.M. (AP)—The College of Santa Fe, which admitted its first female students last year, plans to admit about 60 for housing on the campus for the first time this fall.

The college, founded in 1947, is operated by the Brothers of Christian Schools and has enrollment of about 800.

Caution Urged To Prevent Rash Of Brush Fires

Winfred Snyder, Ulster County Fire Coordinator, and George H. Proper Jr., director of the Division of Fire Safety of the State Office for Local Government, urge local residents to protect their homes and businesses by helping to prevent grass and brush fires.

Fire departments throughout the State are kept busy each spring fighting numerous grass and brush fires, many of which could have been prevented, Proper said today.

"When your local fire department is out fighting a grass or brush fire," he said, "it is not immediately available to respond to a fire involving perhaps your home or your business. In addition, local firemen and vehicles responding to grass and brush fires are exposed to the same danger of injury or damage from traffic accidents as on any other type of fire call."

Snyder urges local residents who are contemplating any out-of-doors burning to first contact their county, village, town or city clerk to learn whether local ordinances or new rules of the State Health Department prohibit such burning in their municipality.

For residents of localities where outside burning is permitted, the State Office for Local Government's Division of Fire Safety makes the following suggestions for keeping rubbish fires under control:

Do not burn rubbish on windy days, or when grass is dry.

Burn rubbish only in containers having openings (including top) of not more than one inch shorter.

Do not leave a rubbish fire unattended until the last spark is out.

Have a garden hose handy, with the water turned on at the faucet, in case the fire escapes the container. Brooms and shovels may also be used.

Weedy vacant lots and similar areas should not be burned over without prior notification and advice of the local fire department. If a grass or brush fire does occur, fire department should be called immediately to avoid serious losses.

Motorists should discard their smoking materials in their auto ash trays when driving. Discarded cigarettes on shoulders of highways have caused serious grass and brush fires.

Macy's Defers Fishkill Plans Pending Roads

Plans for construction of a shopping center and an R. H. Macy Co. branch store in Fishkill have been temporarily deferred pending specific plans by the State Department of Highways for improvement of Routes 9 and 32 in that Dutchess County township.

Macy's planned to construct a shopping center and store by 1968 on a 100-acre site south of Fishkill village near Route 9 and Interstate 84.

A company spokesman said the Fishkill project has been preempted and work is being directed to two other complexes one in Smithtown, L. I., the other in New Rochelle.

John Manning, assistant district engineer for the State Department of Public Works, said the state is studying improvements to the routes through the Town of Fishkill and plans public hearings. The projects have no target date and Manning said the changes are a "few years away."

A Macy's spokesman said, "It would be foolhardy to develop a multi-million dollar complex and then find entrances, roads and exits not consistent with the state's improved routes. We will have to wait for the state to develop a time-schedule."

Construction of the Fishkill complex at first was expected to start in 1966 with completion of the first stage next year, but that plan was later revised to start this year and be completed by 1969.

Meanwhile, the developer who sold Macy the tract for $1.4 million is planning on the Macy setup.

Samuel J. Rodman of New York City and Washington, principal owner of Fishkill Properties, Inc., recently disclosed plans

Change Description On Ward's Color TV

The description of the color television ads in Monday night's Freeman were reversed. The ad was for three Airline televisions ranging in price from $69 to $288.

The description on the $110, 172 square inch color set was correct. However, the set advertised for $288 features 176 square inches of screen with power-built chassis, fringe area viewing, bright colors with no haze and a new portable design.

The smallest color set, at $69, has 72 square inches of screen and features, crisp, clear viewing, space age circuits and weighs only 19 pounds.

Takes Name Seriously

to build a "whole community" with shopping centers, residences, motels, a ski slope on 750 acres near the proposed Macy project.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

The hottest topic of the moment—septuagenarian Onofrio Lauri's two major upsets—had the pocket billiard buffs buzzing at the current World Championship.

The 72-year-old Dean of Pocket Billiards was holding court in the lobby near the entrance to the grand ballroom of the Statler Hilton hotel in New York where the 10-day marathon ends Friday night.

"I'm playing better now than I have in the last five years," said a happy, buoyant Lauri. He had just run "35 and out" to beat 1965 champion Joe Balsis, 150-97. Earlier he trounced Irving Crane, a former three time champion, then topped the Japanese champion, Kazuo Fujima with a spectacular 77-and-out.

Lauri, an ageless wonder from the old school, has never won the world championship, yet he can always be counted on to register one or more spectacular upsets in the annual classics. He is now in his 21st.

Signor Lauri just happened to be born at the wrong time. In his earlier days he had to compete with three of the all-time greats—Ralph Greenleaf, Andrew Ponzi and Erwin Rudolph. Then along came a dapper Pennsylvanian by the name of Willie Misconi and Lauri, though a solid performer, was never able to crash the heights.

• A Great Champion:

The pocket billiard world is currently dominated by Luther Lassiter, a handsome 48-year-old bachelor, who typifies the new image of billiards. A six-time champion, Lassiter is a solid favorite to make it seven.

Master showman Lauri has no illusions about winning a championship, but on a given day he yields to no man—not even Lassiter. Asked to explain the amazing upsets, Lauri replied:

"I fear no player in the game and never have. I figure that when I'm playing my game I can beat anybody in the world." The record proves it.

• A Few Bank Shots:

Lassiter's strongest competition will come from Frank McGown, Lou Butera and Jack (Jersey Red) Breit. Last year's runnerup, Cicero Murphy, and 1965 champion Joe Balsis appear to be well off their top form.

Murphy, who finished second to Lassiter in 1966, then lost a challenge match, 1500-1435, in a terrific slump. Balsis doesn't look like the same player who won the title.

McGown's past history indicates he'll make it close—but no cigar. The handsome Brooklyn culest has not been able to win the "big one." Breit is a daring type of player who could go all the way. Butera of West Pittston, Pa., is the real crowd pleaser. Known as the Machine Gun Kid (he once pocketed 93 balls in 8 minutes), Butera is shackled by a frustrating habit of beating the top challengers, then losing to secondary opponents when least expected. In the 1966 tournament, he dropped four of his first five games then roared back with nine straight to finish third behind Lassiter and Murphy.

• Tough Time for Fujima:

Kazuo Fujima, the Japanese champion, is in another world, geographically and competition wise, but there's a reason. The Japanese have long excelled in straight billiards and 3-cushion, but the standard 14-1 pocket billiards is fairly new in that country. Fujima is one of the world's ranking 8-cushion stars in the mold of the late, great Kinrey Matsuyama, but he is over his head in the 14-1 world of the Lassiters, Cranes, Murphys, et al. A personable, 37-year-old billiard room proprietor, Fujima adds an international dimension to the tournament for the first time in years. Winning a world's pocket billiard championship is one of the most exacting tasks in all of sports.

"Being the champ puts you in a tough spot," says the class guy from Elizabeth City, N. C. "Everyone guns for you. It's like being a clay pigeon in a shooting gallery. There are many players in this field who could win it all."

"I'll just have to play them one at a time and see what happens." Modest words, indeed, but the buffs around the Statler-Hilton are betting that around midnight Friday night, Lauri will have wrapped up his seventh title.

He's been up there a long time and he doesn't seem ready to give up the title—not this week, to be sure.

At Auditorium Tonight

Arion Battles Graham In Wrestling Feature

Spyros Arion, the 275-pound Greek wrestling champion, takes on Luke Graham of Texas in tonight's wrestling headliner at the municipal auditorium. The one-fall bout is to a finish.

Sharing the spotlight is a best-of-three falls Australian tag-team match for midgeets, Fuzzy Cupid and Cowboy Cassidy go against the Jamaica Kid and Cowboy Bradley in this one.

Baron Secluna, champion of Malta, vs. Antonio Pugliese, Italy

Professor Tanaka, Japan, vs. Arman Hussein, Egypt.

The Ox, Arkansas, vs. Tony Nero, Florida.

First bout is scheduled at 8:30 p. m.

Boyd and Randel

Bridge Winners

Dr. Hamilton Boyd and Dr. Victor Randel posted a 61 per cent game to win first place in the fractional point game of the Glenier Bridge Club. Twenty seven boards were in play in a Howell movement.

Runnersup were Mr. and Mrs. Philip Canfield of Poughkeepsie with 60 per cent. Other winners: Dr. Habbab Maroon-Miss Dorothy Maroon, Kingston, 52 per cent; Roy Wulff-Mrs. I. H. Wheatcroft, Kingston, 50 per cent.

The monthly Master Point game will be played tonight at 7:30 at the Elks Club in Kingston.

Cautious Celts Guard Against Knick Surprise

NEW YORK (AP) — The Boston Celtics, optimistic but not overconfident, will try to eliminate the New York Knickerbockers from the National Basketball Association playoffs by winning the game hardly anyone expected to be played.

The game is the fourth of the best-of-5, Eastern Division semifinal series, which most people including the Celtics thought would be over in three games, especially after Boston won the first two.

But Sunday night in Boston, the Knicks stunned the Celtics 123-112, prompting Boston Player-Coach Bill Russell to say:

"Overconfidence beat us. Plainly and simply, I don't think it will happen again."

The Celtics can be excused for being overconfident going into Sunday's game. They had beaten the Knicks 21 straight times dating back to March 17, 1965, and had won 22 straight games with the Knicks at Boston since December, 1962.

New York's victory did something else, too. It ended any prophesying on the part of Russell, who had predicted the Celtics would win the third game.

"That ends my prediction," he said afterwards.

Boston, upon arrival here, will go directly to Madison Square Garden and spend the hour before tonight's game in a locked dressing room.

"We're going to think about nothing but basketball the whole time," Russell said. "I'll tolerate no distractions. I want to wind this thing up."

There are no other games to-night. Philadelphia is awaiting the outcome of the Celtics-Knicks series, and San Francisco and St. Louis don't open the best-of-7, Western Division final set until Thursday.

Ferraro Strokes One Hit, Batting At .267 Average

Mike Ferraro stroked one hit in three official trips to the dish yesterday as the Yankees were beaten, 12-7 by the Chicago White Sox.

Playing the full game at third base, Mike hit a sacrifice fly to deep left in the second inning. He grounded to third and to the plate before singling his last time up.

Ferraro has a .267 spring training average, having four hits in 15 times at bat. He has walked five times and has yet to strike out. He has driven in two runs.

Chrysler Drops Boycott Threat In Atlanta 500

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A spokesman for Atlanta International Raceway says Chrysler Corp. is dropping its threat to back a proposed boycott of Sunday's $75,000 Atlanta 500.

The spokesman said Monday that Chrysler Vice President Bob Rodgers informed AIR President Nelson Weaver that all Chrysler-backed cars would compete in the Atlanta race.

"This ends speculation of a possible pullout by Chrysler entries," the spokesman said.

In a separate statement Monday, Chrysler said, "Car owners of Plymouths and Dodges decided today to compete in the Atlanta 500 race Sunday without protest."

"This decision was made today when NASCAR officials agreed that after the Atlanta race is run they will reconsider their position on earlier protests concerning NASCAR rules in fact and interpretations."

Some Chrysler-backed drivers and car owners had threatened to boycott the Atlanta 500 and other big stock car events the rest of the season in a dispute involving a new intake manifold and cylinder head system which Ford Motor Co. cars are using on their high performance engines.

Chrysler contended the new Ford parts were illegal because they do not meet the minimum production requirements listed in NASCAR's 1967 rules, which state that 500 units be manufactured and available through dealers and parts outlets.

The executive manager of NASCAR, Lin Kuchler, said earlier that the new Ford manifold and exhaust systems are simply an improvement over those formerly in use, and that they are generally available for sale as required by the rules.

Hull and Mikita

Scoring Leaders

NEW YORK (AP) — With Bobby Hull and Stan Mikita having the goal and scoring championship of the National Hockey League wrapped up, the only questions remaining are can they break the all-time records in those departments?

With four games left to play, the Chicago Black Hawks' stars are rapidly closing in on the individual records. Hull's 52 goals is just two short of his record high of 54 set last season and Mikita needs just six points to break the point record of 97 set by Hull last season.

Chicago goalies Glenn Hall and Dennis DeJordy are contending for the Vezina Trophy with a goals-against average of 2.45 and New York Ranger netminder Ed Giacomin leads the league in shutouts with nine.

LATEST ADDITIONS to the pro tennis ranks are Fred Stolle, left, of Australia, and Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif. Stolle won the American Amateur championship at Forest Hills last September.

100Gs Lure Marichal

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

When Juan Marichal puts his $100,000 right arm to work in San Francisco's season opener next month, Jack Hiatt figures to watch the action from a front-row seat in the bullpen.

But the Giants' reserve catcher prefers the view from behind the plate . . . and the farther he hits, the closer he gets.

Hiatt led off the 10th inning Monday with a towering home run, giving San Francisco a 3-2 exhibition victory over the California Angels . . . who dealt him to the Giants in 1964 for outfielder Jose Cardenal.

Marichal, meanwhile, showed up at the Giants' Phoenix, Ariz., camp, signed his first six-figure contract and promised he'll be ready to pitch in the April 11 season opener at St. Louis. The Dominican right-hander, a 25-game winner in 1966, was the last of this year's holdouts.

"I feel I'm in good condition and ready to go right to work," said Marichal, who'll likely make his first spring appearance Friday against the Angels.

Hiatt, a 24-year-old Californian who also plays first base and the outfield, connected off Angels' right-hander Jim Coates in the 10th, snapping a 2-2 deadlock.

Played Last Fall

Hiatt got into 18 games with the Giants last season and hit .304 after spending most of the year with Phoenix in the Pacific Coast League, where he had a .270 mark and 13 homers.

He is battling Dick Dietz and Bob Barton for the No. 2 spot behind regular catcher Tom Haller.

The long ball made the difference in three other games on Monday's exhibition schedule. Sam Bowers' three-run homer lifted Baltimore past Washington 4-3, two tainted homers gave Pittsburgh a 5-4 nod over Los Angeles and Atlanta cracked five homers in trimming Boston 6-1.

The Chicago White Sox downed the New York Yankees 12-7 in a 3-hit struggle, Houston edged Minnesota 7-6 on Dave Adlesh's RBI single in the 12th inning, Cincinnati whipped St. Louis 7-4, the Chicago Cubs edged Cleveland 5-4 and the Kansas City-Philadelphia game ended in a 2-2 tie when rain stopped play after nine innings.

A scheduled night game between the New York Mets and Detroit Tigers was washed out by rain.

Bowens connected off Washington's Camilo Pascual, who was making his first exhibition appearance, following two walks in the seventh inning. Pascual had doubled home a run in the top of the inning to give the Senators a 2-1 lead.

Dodgers' center fielder Jim Hickman missed a shoestring bid for Andre Rodgers' liner with two on in the fifth inning and it went for an inside-the-park homer. Willie Stargell's sixth-inning shot tipped left fielder Bob Bailey's glove and went over the fence for a two-run homer that won it for the Pirates.

Felipe Alou, Denis Menke, Mack Jones and Rico Carty all homered for Atlanta off ex-Breave Hank Fisher and Clete Boyer rapped a two-run homer in the eighth against Dan Osinski, another former Brave.

The White Sox rapped out 17 hits and battered Mel Stottlemyre for five runs in the eighth inning to outscore the Yankees. Triples by Ken Berry and Tom McCraw sparked the deciding rally.

Pitcher Dan Schneider checked Minnesota on one hit over the final three innings and scored the winning run on Adlesh's two-out single in the Astros' 12th.

Lee Maye and Vada Pinson each drove in two runs and John Edwards hit a bases-empty homer in Cincinnati's victory over the Cardinals. Ron Santo, who had homered in the second inning, delivered the winner for the Cubs with a fifth-inning sacrifice fly.

Don Lock's ninth-inning homer pulled the Phillies even with Kansas City before the rains came.

Busy Day For Saints; Latest NFL Addition

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — It was a busy day Monday for the New Orleans Saints, the National Football League's newest member.

The Saints hired an assistant coach, completing Head Coach Tom Fears staff; signed two free agents, including a former college basketball star who has never played football; and announced the site of a pre-season exhibition game.

Fears said Bob Shaw, 43, had been chosen as receiver coach. Shaw has been coach of the Canadian Football League's Toronto Argonauts for the past two seasons.

An all-star football and basketball player at Ohio State, Shaw played pro football with the Cleveland and Los Angeles Rams, the Chicago Cardinals and the CFL Calgary Stampede and Argonauts. He was on the Cleveland Rams championship team in 1945 and in 1950 with the Cardinals he caught five touchdown passes against the Baltimore Colts.

Shaw was an assistant coach previously at Baltimore and San Francisco.

With the signing of 6-foot-6, 250-lb. Barker Monday, the Saints may have a basketball look this fall. Barker, 25, of Fresno, Calif., was a four-year cage star at Edinboro, Penn., State.

"I never played football," said Barker, "but I've gotten some size on me in the past couple of years and want to give it a try."

Barker, who finished at Edinboro two seasons ago, was signed as a tight end.

In the recent NFL draft, the Saints chose Providence basketball star Jimmy Walker, an All-America, and Tennessee's Ron men in sports and used to wear ultra-long sideburns until he found every kid imitating him and their mothers writing angry letters of protest.

He's the biggest thing in the Cleveland camp, figuratively and literally. The Indian brass, starting with president Gabe Paul, talks about a "typical McDowell year" being just the tonic the club needs to squeeze into American League pennant contention.

"I really can't tell you what a typical McDowell year might be," said Sam archly, "mainly because I haven't had one. I think I can win 20 games. As to whether or not it's typical, I wouldn't know."

Last year, Sam won his first four games including a couple of consecutive shutouts, and became a nationally displayed cover boy while the Indians rode high in first place. Then he suffered a pinched nerve in his deltoid muscle — some critics said it was in his head — and fell on his . . . er, left arm. His record was 9-8, and the Indians fell all the way to fifth place.

It's a sore point with me," argued Sam. "The sports writers wrote it was in the head instead of my arm while every doctor around the league was telling me how bad it was. If I ever get another sore arm, I'll handle it differently next time. Only my trainer and club doctor will know about it."

That's what Sam thinks. When Sandy Koufax hid his lame arm in an ice bucket, the indefatigable baseball researchers were right at his elbow. In Sam's case, he'd probably think they were rubbing it in.

Bit of Contradiction This self-deprecation is a contradiction to the swaggering personality of handsome Sam, who prides himself on being voted one of the best-groomed

Plan Benefit Tilts To Honor Bill Knott

Four top notch basketball teams will be in action Friday, Apr. 14 at the Municipal Auditorium in a benefit doubleheader. Proceeds will go to the family of the late Bill Knott, a former area resident. Knott died early this month in Orlando, Florida.

In the 7:30 opener, Donnie Van's Service Station will meet the Byrne Chevrolet club which captured the Hudson Valley championship several years ago. Donnie Van's is composed of players from this year's Kingston High DUSO League and Section Nine title winning squad.

In the 9 o'clock feature, the powerful Falcons of Stewart Air Force Base will play the Ulster College All-Stars. Stewart made one other appearance in Kingston this season and beat Spartan Pools.

Alderman-at-Large Frank Koenig and Ulster Community College basketball coach Mike Perry are serving as co-chairmen for the benefit contests.

Tickets will be on sale in the near future.

Fallsburg, Wiley's In Cage Semi-Finals

Dave Brownbill made two foul shots with one second of an overtime period left to give South Fallsburg a 73-71 win over Jeb's Sports of Nyack in a quarter-final game of the 24th annual Poughkeepsie YMCA Basketball tournament last night at the Dutchess Community College gym.

In the other quarter-final game, played before more than 400 fans, Wiley's of Hyde Park stopped Monte Carlo of Poughkeepsie, 60-48.

Quarter-final action resumes Wednesday as Whitman Electric of Kingston plays the Stewart Air Force Base Falcons at 7:15 and the powerful Pine Plains Bombardiers clash with Perkin-Elmer of Danbury at 8:15.

Strong Sizzles

South Fallsburg, an upset winner over Hub Delicatessen last week, trailed by 10 points, 41-31, at halftime. Ed Strong, a Region 15 all-star player at Sullivan Community College, hit for 21 points in the second half to spark the rally.

Art Orlando, former Manhattan College star, knotted the game in regulation time with 35 seconds to play.

In the extra session, both sides exchanged buckets. Jeb's led the ball with 12 seconds left to play and Brownbill was fouled. He calmly made both charity flips.

The first game was dull by comparison. Wiley's jumped to a 9-0 lead as Monte Carlo went six minutes without hitting the scoreboard.

The winners had a 21-31 lead at halftime and pulled away in the third period.

Wiley's will meet South Fallsburg next Monday, 7:15 at the IBM Country Club in Poughkeepsie in a semi-final game. The winners of Wednesday's games will clash in the other semi-final contest. Finals are Wednesday, Apr. 5.

Widby, most valuable basketball player in the Southeastern Conference.

Walker played football in high school but not in college. Widby was the punting specialist for the Tennessee football team, frequently making long distance hops by airplane to play both basketball and football on the same day.

Also signed as a free agent by the Saints Monday was Jimmy Ebbeling, 6-0 and 205, of Shafter, Calif. Ebbeling played at Bakersfield, Calif., Junior College in 1962-63 and later attended Tennessee and Miami, Fla., but did not play at either college.

At Bakersfield, Ebbeling played defensive back and flanker and was chosen on the Junior College All-America team.

The Saints said they would play an exhibition game Aug. 26 at Portland, Ore., with the San Francisco 49ers.

A pre-season game announced by the Saints, who play the Rams in Anaheim, Calif., Aug. 2 and the Atlanta Falcons here tentatively Sept. 9.

Clay's managers announced a suspension of talks about future title defenses and, as Muhammad Ali, Black Muslim minister, Clay remained in Dallas, recruiting converts for Allah.

He paused to tell reporters, "If I thought it would bring freedom, justice and equality for 22 million so-called Negroes, you wouldn't have to draft me. I'd join tomorrow."

The induction switch from Louisville to Houston meant an automatic delay described as "indefinite," but Mrs. Josie W. Koonce, chief clerk for all Houston draft boards, said that "indefinite" under law meant a minimum of one day and probably will mean no more than three weeks or a month at most.

She said it is up to the Army now to decide whether or not it will accept Clay from among the other Houston draftees and out-of-town draftees sent its way.

"As far as I've found, there's no reason why he won't be inducted," she said. "We don't know what dates we have on our calls. Some calls are in April, but our calls are small now."

Clay's managers announced a suspension of talks about future title defenses and, as Muhammad Ali, Black Muslim minister, Clay remained in Dallas, recruiting converts for Allah.

He paused to tell reporters, "If I thought it would bring freedom, justice and equality for 22 million so-called Negroes, you wouldn't have to draft me. I'd join tomorrow."

The induction switch from Louisville to Houston meant an automatic delay described as "indefinite," but Mrs. Josie W. Koonce, chief clerk for all Houston draft boards, said that "indefinite" under law meant a minimum of one day and probably will mean no more than three weeks or a month at most.

She said it is up to the Army now to decide whether or not it will accept Clay from among the other Houston draftees and out-of-town draftees sent its way.

"As far as I've found, there's no reason why he won't be inducted," she said. "We don't know what dates we have on our calls. Some calls are in April, but our calls are small now."

Clay's managers announced a suspension of talks about future title defenses and, as Muhammad Ali, Black Muslim minister, Clay remained in Dallas, recruiting converts for Allah.

Hosts Top WKNY In Preliminary

The widely heralded Texas Cow Girls came to town last night and lassoed our crack Hub Delicatessen five, 66-63, before an excellent turnout of about 500 at the municipal auditorium.

Are the Delis embarrassed by it all? Was it for real? Nobody can say for sure.

One thing is certain—everybody, including the players had a wonderful time in the Kingston Jaycees sponsored event.

The Delis took a 32-23 lead in the first half, then suddenly Cow Girls, particularly Sharon Siebold and Arlene Ulrich, starting hitting all over the place in the second half.

Comes the Rally

A flurry of baskets by these lassies in the closing minutes pulled the game out of the fire for the Cow Girls. The Delis, incidentally, didn't seem unhappy with the ending.

For the record Miss Ulrich led the girls with 18 points and Miss Siebold hit for 14. Chick Boice (18) and Mike Perry (17), the UCCC coach, led the locals.

Joyce Eastman kept the crowd amused with a Marquis Haynes-style dribbling exhibition during the game and during a topnotch halftime show. The girls unloaded a bag of tricks that had a faint Harlem Globetrotter tinge to them.

In the preliminary, the Jaycees had too much power for the WKNY staff and rolled to an easy 40-18 victory. The radio boys drew loud cheers for their efforts.

Dr. Fred Holcomb, Jr. of Kingston, a prominent area golfer and executive for the past 30 years, has been named winner of the 1967 Page One Sports Award, the Kingston Newspaper Guild announced today.

Dr. Holcomb will be presented the award at the Guild's 12th annual Page One Ball on Saturday, May 20, at the Governor Clinton hotel.

A member of Wiltwyck Country Club, Dr. Holcomb began his golf career at the age of 11, taking lessons from the late Walter Buddenhagen at the Twaalfskill Club.

He showed his early flair for golf organizational work when he organized Kingston High School's first golf team in 1934. The team was unable to book opponents the first year but in the next two years won nine of ten matches each season.

Dr. Holcomb won the Twaalfskill club championship in 1941 and again after the war in 1946. In the latter year he participated in the first Kingston City championship playoff against Wiltwyck's Roy Vogt. He lost the match, 9 and 8, and then transferred his membership to Wiltwyck.

During his career at Wiltwyck, Dr. Holcomb has held high level golf posts on the local and regional level. He served as Wiltwyck president in 1958 and 1964, was vice president in 1957 and served several three-year terms on the Board of Directors.

As golf chairman and publicity director for a number of years, his influence was felt in the design and format of Wiltwyck's excellent tournament schedule.

Held Executive Posts

Dr. Holcomb's interest in the promotion of golf was widely recognized. He was elected president of the Hudson River Golf Association on three times (1962-1963-64) after serving three terms as vice president. He has been a member of the Board of Governors of the Eastern New York Golf Association since Wiltwyck joined the group in 1958.

A fine match play competitor, Dr. Holcomb carries a 6 handicap. He has competed in 12 Herdigan Memorial tournaments, placing sixth in 1953.

For several years, Dr. Holcomb has written the Wiltwyck Club Newsletter and edited the Annual Invitational booklet.

Employed at IBM

For the past 11 years, Dr. Holcomb has been Supervising Physician at the Kingston IBM facility. A graduate of Kingston High School (1936), he graduated from University of Virginia prior to receiving his MD from Albany Medical College.

Wiltwyck Country Club recognized Dr. Holcomb's distinguished service to golf by electing him to the annual Wiltwyck Invitational journal to him.

Dr. Holcomb joins a long list of distinguished sports figures to win the Page One Sports Award.

The Awards Committee, under Sherwood O. Lasher, chairman, will announce Page One winners in other fields in the coming weeks.

The race was marred, however, when four horses and their drivers, at the back of the pack, spilled across the track. They were Squire Brook, driven by Andy Cordes; Frisco Hal, driven by Dale Duffy; Ricci Rita, driven by Don Corneau; and Aunt Libby, driven by Wayd Cotter. None of the drivers or horses was injured seriously, the track said.

Rhythm Chief, the favorite, returned $5.20. Maynards Filly was third.

Lassiter Ties McGown for Lead

NEW YORK (AP) — Luther Lassiter of Elizabeth City, N.C., tied Frank McGown of Brooklyn, N.Y., Monday in the World Pocket Billiards Championship.

Lassiter, the defending champion, defeated Cicero Murphy, Brooklyn, N.Y., for an 8-0 record after five days of play.

Tied for third place were Jack Briet, Houston, Tex., Lou Butera, West Pittsburg, Pa., and Irving Crane, Rochester, N.Y., with 7-1 records.

In Monday night's matches, Onofrio Lauri, Seaford, N.Y., beat Buddy Gronross, Hicksville, N.Y., 125-60; Joe Balsis, Minorsville, Pa., beat Danny Jones, Columbus, Ohio, 150-20; Art Cranfield, Syracuse, N.Y., beat Kazuo Fujima, Kyoto, Japan, 150-43.

Also Jack Colavita, Newark, N.J., beat Al Gaffner, Long Island City, N.Y., 150-100; Eddie Taylor, Knoxville, Tenn., beat Lauri, 150-86, and Cranfield beat Jones, 150-144.

Gypsy Joe Harris Turns Cokes Cool

NEW YORK (AP) — Welterweight champion Curtis Cokes looked cool and there was a smile on his face as he heard matchmaker Teddy Brenner describe Gypsy Joe Harris as a combination of Beau Jack, Henry Armstrong, Kid Gavilan and Gil Turner.

"He's got something of all four," said Brenner, who is as much as a fight fan as he is a matchmaker. "He gets in there and punches and never stops. If you thought Ismael Laguna was spectacular a few weeks ago, wait until you see Harris fight."

The four fighters Brenner mentioned rate high on the all-time list of action fighters.

Wasn't it a little early to go on the limb for a 21-year-old who has had only 16 fights although he's won them all?

"Forget it," said Brenner. "This kid comes to fight."

The 29-year-old champion from Dallas, Tex., and Gypsy Joe of Philadelphia meet in a non-title 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden Friday night.

New Cars

Here's What
Tom McCahill said about the 1967 Rambler SST.
(Quotes from the March 1967 Mechanix Illustrated)

New Cars

"There isn't a better intermediate-size car sold in the United States than the 1967 Rambler Rebel—and frankly, I never thought I would be making such a statement."

New Cars

"The 1967 Rebel SST hardtop is an all-around car that cannot be topped by any of the intermediate-size sporty rigs being built in the country today. You could go through the list and the Rebel, taking point by point—which means roadability, performance, comfort and quality—would top most of the newer specialty cars."

New Cars

"At my door right now is an Imperial LeBaron that costs twice as much and it hasn't got a single item the REBEL doesn't have in the way of an extra luxury. In fact, it has considerably fewer. From a cost angle this car is NOT overpriced."

New Cars

"What I should point out right off the bat is that of all the new sporty-type cars, as they come from the showroom, the REBEL has by far the best and safest suspension of the whole kit and caboodle. Only the Mustang 390 with steamroller tires could stay with the SST through bumps and hard switchbacks."

New Cars

"There is absolutely no plowing with the REBEL, even on the Speedway Sports car course, and little body roll. I realize heavy-duty equipment will tie a lot of the others down but this is the way the SST comes from the showroom."

New Cars

"I realize we've run faster cars than this but not many in this size or price range. Zero to 60 in 8.6 and a top speed of 117 is pretty fine performance with highway gearing. The REBEL CAN be bought with optional drag coys just like the competition."

The value of specialized training is exemplified in this little episode.

The car simply would not run. The mechanic was called in, lifted the hood, reached inside, gave a twist of the wrist to a little mechanism—and all was well.

Mr. Jones—What do I owe you?

Joe (the mechanic)—One dollar and ten cents.

Mr. Jones—Great Heavens! It seems like an awful lot for just twisting a little gadget. How do you itemize it?

Joe (the mechanic)—Well, for twisting the little gadget—10 cents. For knowing which little gadget to twist—$1.00.

The family was seated at the table with a guest, who was a business acquaintance of Dad's, all ready to enjoy the meal, blurted out:

Little Mike—Why, mother, this is roast beef!

Mrs. Brown (his mother)—Yes, what of it?

Little Mike—Well, Pop said this morning that he was going to bring a big fish home for dinner tonight.

There's no incentive to succeed these days. You can live too comfortably as a failure.

The easiest way to get back on your feet is to get rid of your car.

BRAND NEW 3-28

Cowboy Bob (asked the dude)—What kind of saddle do you want? With or without a horn? The dude pondered a moment before answering: Joe (the dude)—Without, I guess. Doesn't seem to be much traffic on the prairies.

A wife, angry at her husband for spending so much time with rod and reel, defined a fisherman as—"A jerk at one end of a line waiting for a jerk on the other."

The thing you bought on credit was not extravagance if you had not intended to pay for it when you bought it—it was grand larceny.

An insurance agent received the following inquiry from a young lady: Mrs. Blank—If I take out one of your special policies on my husband's life, exactly what will I get if he dies?

The agent promptly replied, Mr. Green—If he dies naturally, $10,000; if he dies accidentally, $20,000; if he dies intentionally, 30 years.

The human race seems to have gone to a lot of trouble to improve everything but people.

See Possible Benefits Above $1,500 Cutoff

Social security beneficiaries who worked in 1966 may still receive some payment even if their earnings exceeded $1,500 last year, George Habernig, district manager of the Kingston office said today. To claim these benefits a beneficiary must file an annual report of earnings for 1966 on a form provided by the Social Security Administration.

Many beneficiaries automatically receive their annual report of earnings in the mail, but others who received no benefit checks last year because they estimated high earnings that would make them ineligible will have to get a form from the local social security office.

Habernig stressed that beneficiaries who earned more than $1,500 in 1966 should file an annual report if:

—their actual earnings are less than original estimates, which would allow some benefits to be paid;
—they earned less than $125 in any one month as employees; substantial work was not performed in one or more months.
Beneficiaries who believe they might qualify for payment based on one of these conditions should not delay filing an annual report, Habernig said. The deadline for filing annual reports has been extended two days beyond the usual date to April 17. Filing later than April 17, Habernig cautioned, may result in the loss of benefits.

Beneficiaries may obtain the annual report of earnings form and additional information from the social security office at 57 Albany Avenue.

Safe Stealers Still at Large

A sleeping husband, awakened by the screams of his wife shortly after midnight, provided the few slim clues available to authorities in an armed robbery in Newburgh Monday morning. The man, Philip Ciccarello, 28, an assembly line worker in a New Jersey automobile plant, told State Police that three men brandishing pistols broke into his apartment in Balmville, Town of Newburgh, at about 12:20 a. m.

Subsequent investigation by troopers unearthed the discovery that a safe containing $3,000 in cash and negotiable checks had been removed from a neighboring apartment, occupied by Carmen Fortino.

Ciccarello said the men, two of whom appeared to be in their 20s and the third about 30, first broke into his apartment and awakened his wife by a commotion in the kitchen. The woman screamed, arousing her husband. Only half awake, he said he realized dimly someone was in the room and that he "grabbed for him." The man pulled back and the light switch was thrown to reveal the pistol packing trio, who demanded to know the location of the safe.

When Ciccarello said there was no safe in his apartment, two of the men broke into the Fortino residence next door while one stayed behind to guard the couple. In Fortino's flat, they found what they were looking for; left about 15 minutes later after telling the husband and wife they had "given them a break" and suggesting they give them a break by not calling the police. Unimpressed, Ciccarello called both police and Fortino, who was visiting nearby. Troopers said today no new leads had been uncovered and the investigation is still continuing.

Sentence Airman

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — The Taipei District Court has sentenced Airman I.C. Thomas P. Madison, 24, of Silver Springs, N.Y., to two months in jail or a fine equivalent to $27 on charges of negligent homicide arising from a traffic accident.

A Chinese Nationalist soldier was fatally injured Nov. 24 when a car Madison was driving collided with a military truck.

Madison was tried in a Chinese court under the agreement governing the status of American forces, which went into effect last April.

Causes Fire Scare

A defective heater motor caused a fire scare in a three-story apartment building at 268 Washington Avenue shortly after midnight. It charged the building, owned by Michael Prisco, of Hollywood, Fla., with heavy smoke. A call at 12:29 a. m. was followed by an alarm from Box 1521, Main Street and Washington Avenue. Units from Central and Wiltwyck stations, the Wicks, Excelsior and Wiltwyck volunteers responded. Downtown volunteers were on standby call with Union at Central Station.

Today in Washington

To Commission Sub

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Will Rogers will be commissioned by the Navy Saturday, rounding out the 41-ship fleet of Polaris missile submarines started in the late 1950s.

Although numerically complete, the Polaris fleet faces a substantial program of remodeling. The Department of Defense plans to refit 31 of the subs to accommodate the Poseidon, a more up-to-date missile with a multiple warhead.

Not Opposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four top American Negro leaders who have offered to help Nigeria calm its current domestic strife are encountering no opposition from the State Department.

Press officer Robert J. McCloskey indicated Monday at a news conference that the department is giving cautious endorsement to the effort.

Telegrams offering assistance to the central government and the four regional governments in the politically troubled African nation were reportedly sent by Rev. Wilkins, head of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People; Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference; A. Philip Randolph, of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters; and Whitney Young Jr., of the National Urban League.

Atlantic II, newest satellite tossed into earth orbit by Communications Satellite Corp., began tests Monday to prepare it for handling communications between the United States and Europe.

A 2,000-candlepower light has been approved by the Federal Aviation Agency to mark the center lines of airport runways for landing guidance. The new superbright marker lights will be most helpful in poor daytime visibility rather than at night, the FAA said.

Says Catholic Education Needs A Philosophy

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Some do-or-die questions today were put before Roman Catholicism's huge educational system in this country.

Among the crucial, widely argued issues cited were: "Why should the church be operating schools at all?" "Does its goal of 'every Catholic child in a Catholic school' remain a possible and desirable one today?"

"Should we concentrate on one level of education or should we instead seek to promote education across the board on all levels?"

The questions were posed at the 64th annual convention of the National Catholic Education Association by its president, general, Bishop Ernest J. Primeau, of Manchester, N.H.

"What Catholic education today needs more than anything else is a philosophy, a rationale for its own existence," he told the school officials and teachers, including thousands of nuns.

He said he felt sure most of those present "would agree emphatically that it is reasonable and even essential" for the church to sponsor educational institutions.

President Resigns Big N. J. Union Job

PATERSON, N. J. (AP) — The president of the largest union local in New Jersey — the 20,000 member Local 1262 of the Retail Store Employees Union — has submitted his resignation to the union's international office in Washington.

The resignation was announced to the membership Monday night during a meeting here by William McGrath, a vice president and trustee of the local.

The local has been operating under trusteeship of the international union since allegations of financial irregularities were made against Local President William A. McLaughlin by Frank R. Rando, local secretary-treasurer.

Favorite in 29th

NEW YORK (AP) — Support from both the regular and reform wings of the Bronx Democratic party made Robert Garcia the heavy favorite in today's special election to fill the State Senate seat in the 29th District.

The seat was vacated after senator-elect Eugene Rodriguez was convicted on charges of attempted grand larceny, perjury and conspiracy in a murder plot. He was sentenced March 2 to 1½-to-4 years in prison.

Rodriguez, 37, was the first Puerto Rican elected to the Senate. He was sworn in last December but never occupied his seat.

Testimonial Dinner Will Honor Village Fire Chief

The annual Chief's Night of Saugerties Fire Department tonight at VFW Hall will be a testimonial dinner for outgoing chief August Fellows, a member of C. A. Lynch Fire Company. Dinner will be served at 8 p. m.

Fellows served as department chief for the past year.

Ulster County Sheriff William B. Martin will be the guest speaker. More than 100 village volunteer firemen, chiefs of other communities and special guests are expected to attend.

Women's Guild To Attend Hope Music, Kingston

Women's Guild of Saugerties Reformed Church will hold its April meeting in the form of a musical program.

Guild members will attend the Hope College Symphonette scheduled at Fair Street Reformed Church, Kingston, Wednesday night, April 5.

Members will meet at the church at 7:15 p. m. Transportation will be provided.

Four Are Named Posters Judges

The Poster Contest sponsored by the Public Affairs Department of the Woman's Club of Saugerties is well underway at this time. Youngsters in the 7th, 8th and 9th grades are diligently working on their posters with the hope of capturing one of the cash prizes being offered. First prize is ten dollars, second prize eight dollars and third and fourth prizes are five dollars each.

Mrs. Joseph Sullivan, chairman of the Public Affairs Department, announced that the following members of the Women's Club of Saugerties will act as judges for the contest: Mrs. Robert Blanchard and Mrs. John Janeczek of the Public Affairs Department and from the Art Department, Mrs. Edward Hulme, chairman, and Mrs. William Hayes.

Judging will take place the first week in April and posters will be placed on display in various places of business in the village.

WSGS to Hear Brooklyn Cleric

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of Saugerties Methodist Church will meet April 4, 7:45 in the chapel. Mrs. Theodore Larson, program chairman, has announced the Rev. Charles W. Lee, pastor of the Bushwick Avenue Methodist Church in Brooklyn will be guest speaker. He will speak on the subject of Affluence and Poverty. After the business meeting and program, refreshments will be served by hostesses, Mrs. Robert Emery, Mrs. Raymond Quackenbush and Miss Kathryn Fellows.

Sportsmen Slate Dance on April 1

High Woods Sportsmen's Club will sponsor a round and square dance at the clubhouse Saturday, April 1, music from 9 p. m. until 1 a. m.

Music will be furnished by the K-Ray-Trio. Non-members and club friends are invited.

Reformed Church

"The Living Christ," a sermon for the post-Easter season, will be the subject at Reformed Church of Saugerties at both 9:45 and 11 a. m. services Sunday by the Rev. Orville. Jay Hine, minister.

Music at early service will be by junior choir and senior choir will sing at late service. Persons who are interested in forming another adult choir to sing at early service are asked to communicate with the pastor as consideration is now being given to this matter by the church.

Sunday church school will meet at 9:45 a. m., simultaneously with early church service. Children from three years of age through fourth grade go directly to the chapel on John Street and those above fourth grade participate in the first part of early church service, going directly to the sanctuary of the church from where they are dismissed for class instruction. Worship will be in charge of the superintendent.

Junior-High Youth Fellowship will meet at 7 p. m. Sunday. Young people of this recently-organized youth group extend their appreciation to all adults who helped them in their recent bake sale from which they received over $70 to begin a treasury for their organization.

The new line of command after April 1 will be Homer Van Voorhis of R. A. Snyder Fire Company, chief; George Warriner of Washington Hook and Ladder Company, first assistant, and Carroll Kimble of C. A. Lynch Company, second assistant.

Charles H. Granwehr, department secretary, is in charge of arrangements. Members of Village and Town Boards will be special guests.

The Ladies Auxiliary of Saugerties Memorial Post 5034, VFW will serve the dinner.

Cub Scout Pack 37, of Blue Mountain, held its monthly meeting last week at Ridge Runners Rod and Gun Club. Thirty-two Cubs were present for roll call and inspection by District Commissioner John Carlson, aided by John Steffens, Kirt Stade and Cubmaster Dave Bright. Opening was led by den chiefs, aided by Carl Bright, with the salute and John DiGiacomo and Todd Kuriplach as color guards. Activities for the evening included a hammer and nail driving contest and slides of past events, which were enjoyed by all. There was also a display of the handyman projects made by Cubs. Moving up the Cubbing ladder of achievements, the following badges were awarded: Wolf badge to Kyle Kuriplach, plus a gold and silver arrow; Bear badge to William Garrison; Gold arrows on Wolf badge to Steve Hennegan and Gary Sullivan; Silver arrows to Edward Trnka (on Bear badge) and Carl Bright (on Lion badge). Fred Bright received a star to wear on his den chief's cord to signify one year of service.

Discussed at the meeting was a list of up-coming events. On April 1, Cubs will have a bottle drive covering the West Saugerties, Blue Mountain, Saxton and Centerville areas. Residents in these areas please have their donations ready when Cubs come around between 10 a. m. and 1 p. m. All bottles are to be taken to Buchans Plumbing for deposition. All Cubs invite their families to go on a hike to Artist Rock on April 16. Meeting place will be at Bright's at 2 p. m. when all will drive to North Lake where the hike will start.

Cub Scouts enjoyed a show in February when they were treated by the pack to the movie "Follow Me Boys." All who saw it enjoyed it immensely.

After refreshments were served by den mothers, the closing ceremony was led by each den and parents making a living circle and repeating the Cub Scout motto. Next pack meeting will be held at Ridge Runners Rod and Gun Club April 25 at 7:30 p. m. April's theme is Mountains of America and all parents are cordially invited to attend.

Atonement Lutheran

Atonement Lutheran Church, the Rev. Walter Cowen, pastor, Market Street, Saugerties, church services 8 and 11 a. m. with nursery care during late service. Sunday school at 9:15 a. m.

Confirmation classes will not meet this week. Next session will be Wednesday, April 5 at 1:50 p. m. Luther Essays are due April 15.

Sunday, April 2, 3 to 8:30 p. m., Hudson District of Metropolitan New York Synod will meet at Redeemer Lutheran Church, Wurts Street, Kingston. Representatives of Atonement Lutheran Church, Saugerties, will attend together with representatives from 30 congregations of the Hudson District. Topic of the meeting will be "The Lutheran Manifesto" and its application to congregational life. The manifesto is a statement concerning the function and goals of the congregation and the session will aim to have the goals of the manifesto attained in all congregations.

Sunday, April 9, will be observed as National Christian College Day in Lutheran Churches of the state and nation. Object is to point up the place of Christian Higher Education in the United States and its vital part in the scheme of higher education. Wagner College, Staten Island, and Hartwick College, Oneonta, are two colleges which Lutherans support in the state. Lutheran Church in America has 17 colleges. Members of Atonement will receive bulletin inserts with information concerning the two Lutheran colleges.

Gardens Society Sets Flower Show

Saugerties Society of Little Gardens held its regular meeting last Wednesday at Saugerties Savings Bank.

Guest speaker was Roger Decker, of Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation, and his topic was To Plant and Preserve, "Why Trees." Decker has been employed by Central Hudson for the past 25 years as Tree Clearance and Forestry Supervisor. He was born and raised in Maine, but having lived now for the past 25 years in the Hudson Valley, and covering the eight counties and 157 communities of Centre Hudson Districts, he is very fond of, and can really appreciate this area. The Hudson Valley is well-blessed with trees and he has a great pride in helping with the proper selection and planting of new trees, plus the proper care, maintenance and preservation of existing trees.

After showing many beautiful color slides of scenes familiar to all the members, Decker concluded the program with a brief question and answer period. It was a most interesting and informative program on trees.

The program was followed by the business meeting with president, Mrs. William Wade, presiding. Mrs. George Jorgensen, chairman for this year's Flower Show, announced the theme would be "Days We Remember," and would be held June 7 at the Dutch Reformed Church. Mrs. Jorgensen also stressed the importance of anyone entering the Junior Division ages 5-14 years, should start planting and preparing their entry now in order to be ready by June 7. If anyone desires further information regarding the Junior Division entries please contact Mrs. Richard Geuss or Mrs. Jorgensen.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Brendon Dooley, Mrs. Frank White and Mrs. Dorrance Baker. The next meeting will be April 12 at Saugerties Methodist Church.

Paid Firemen Of Kansas City Halt Walkout

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Firemen called off a scheduled walkout today as the Missouri Mediation Board moved into their wage-hour dispute with the City Council.

Daniel C. Rogers, mediation board chairman, called a 10 a. m. meeting of city officials and leaders of Fire Fighters Union Local 42 at City Hall.

Ask Settlement

The governor told them he would move only if Mayor Ilus W. Davis joined in the request. The mayor did so by telephone.

The firemen had timed the walkout to coincide with today's city election in which 12 councilmen and a mayor will be elected. The firefighters union has urged its members to work for the defeat of Davis and other members of the Citizens Association, the controlling faction on the council.

In New York, the United Firemen's Association voted Monday night to begin a clerical work stoppage at 9 a. m. Friday. Gerald F. Ryan, association president, said the firemen will "respond to alarms of fire and emergencies," but will do no clerical work.

Want $2,000
The 10,500 New York firemen want a $2,000-a-year wage increase over a two-year period and fringe benefits. First grade firemen now earn $8,483 a year. They have been working without a contract since last July and have received an offer of a $1,100 pay boost.

The 850 Kansas City firemen, averaging $6,700 a year while working 56 hours a week are demanding a 10 per cent wage hike and a 50-hour week. They turned down an offer of 5 per cent boost.

Phone Official To Give Facts on Extended Service

New York Telephone Company plans for extended area service will be outlined at the Town of Rochester board meeting April 6.

Supervisor Franklin Kelder reports G. W. Hibner, manager of the Monticello office of the telephone company will attend the meeting.

Hibner pointed out, in his letter, that the Extended Area Service Plan will affect the entire mid-Hudson region since this area is developing at a rapid rate, and that the Accord area will be one of the first affected by the new plan. The current schedule indicates that the plan should be in operation by late 1969.

Supervisor Kelder urged that all interested persons attend the meeting on April 6, 1967, at 8 p. m., at the town clerk's office, Accord, so that they can become better acquainted with the proposed New York Telephone Company program.

Pigeons were domesticated by man about 5,000 years ago and, by 550 B.C., had become a nuisance.

Could This Be Your Roof?

It's possible—UNDERNEATH. If you've been noticing small but persistent leaks — it's more than possible.

This particular roof is being applied with new Plyscore which provides a smooth surface for the waterproof felt and the new roof that will be nailed to it.

Smith Parish uses only the best materials — one reason why their roofs last so long.

(By the way — on your next roofing quote — ask for the exact written details of the work to be done. Smith Parish always gives them!)
